

Upland mayor won't seek re-election

By DON GREEN
Staff Writer

Upland Mayor George Gibson, a member of the city council since 1964, announced last Thursday he will not seek re-election next April.

And the race for his successor started early, five months before the election, when both John McCarthy, the council's mayor pro tem, and William "Doyle" Alexander, a property investment consultant, announced their candidacies on Thursday.

Gibson, 67, as known to have been considering leaving city government for some time. He intends to fulfill his four-year term as mayor, marking a full 16 years on the city council.

In an interview, he said a variety of considerations led to his decision. Gibson noted the mayor's post is time consuming.

"I wanted to do something else — like make a little money some place," he joked.

"And I think it's a good idea to get a change in government as well as in anything else."

He also expressed hope that his decision would allow more time for travel and vacations.

As for the timing of his announcement, Gibson said, "I thought it's better to have it out in the open and let others interested get into it."

"This announcement is being made to encourage others, whose interests lie in this very special city, to come forward and to present their qualifications to the citizens of Upland for the office of mayor or city councilman."

He added, "The future of Upland as a high-quality residential community, with excellent commercial and industrial development, appears to be assured. This has been a major goal of mine throughout the past years."

Gibson came to the area in December 1946 as the resident FBI agent for San Bernardino County and moved to Upland early in 1947.

He recalled that a bank robbery in the city helped lead him to find a home in Upland. Police officers and former Constable Sam Barker, with whom he was working on the case, found him a place to live in Upland.

Gibson served as resident FBI agent until 1961 and altogether was with the bureau for 21 years.

Since entering city government in 1964, Gibson has been the highest vote getter in each of his four elections. He was Upland's last appointed mayor and its second elected directly by the voters.

He will serve eight years in all as mayor.

The council appointed Gibson mayor in 1968 and again in 1970. In 1976, he defeated Abner Haldeman, another longtime fixture in Upland politics and the city's first directly elected mayor, for the top post.

Asked to recall some of his accomplishments in office, Gibson referred to his earlier years on the council, "when Upland was just starting to develop."

He noted residents were upset that the council approved rezoning — "whatever the developers wanted" — from low-density residential development to apartments and commercial uses.

Sentiment against the trend helped sweep him and Mike Rossiter onto the council, with the pair piling up margins of landslide proportions over their opponents.

"When I came to Upland, it was a wonderful little community, and I realize you can't stop it from growing."

But Gibson did work to upgrade zoning and building requirements. During his time on the council, the population has perhaps doubled to the 44,761 residents found in a special census earlier this year.

"When we started to improve the zoning standards, some developers said Upland would never develop," Gibson recalled.

Referring to quality development, he said, "That's been my goal and key words."

Gibson also noted he pushed some 15 years ago for Upland to require utility lines be placed underground. The city was one of the first in the state to make that requirement, he said.

The Upland Architectural Commission, which will be 15 years old next year, was Gibson's idea. He also was instrumental in developing an ordinance covering the size, design and placement of signs.

And he served on the council's capital improvements committee charged with research for the present civic center — which was constructed in two phases, the last marked by the opening of city hall in 1974.

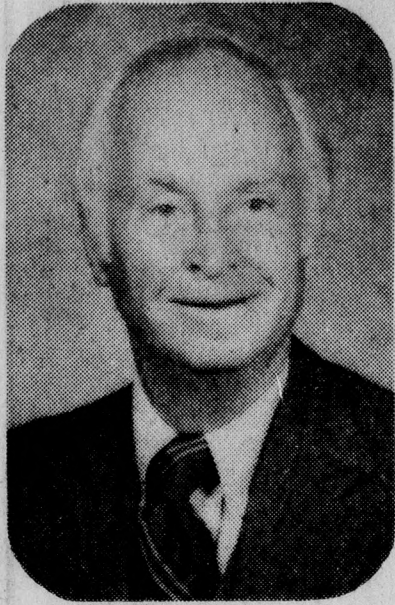

Gibson said he has also backed expansion of the police and fire departments and assisted youth activities. The creation of the Upland Recreation Committee fulfilled a 1976 campaign vow.

After leaving the FBI in 1961, Gibson served as superintendent of plant protection for 15 years at Kaiser Steel Corp. in Fontana.

He concentrated on city government and then entered a new career in real estate this February. Gibson recently joined Republic Sales Co. Inc., the real estate brokerage firm of Lewis Homes Inc., as a realtor associate.

Gibson and his wife, Louise, have four grown children.

The mayor said he plans to remain active, although not in any capacity with city government. He jogs regularly and proudly noted a doctor told him he has the constitution of a man 10 years younger.

$75 million condo project planned

By DON GREEN
Staff Writer

A local developer has proposed a $75 million planned community — featuring 556 condominiums lining an 18-hole golf course and commercial and industrial uses — on 226 acres in northeast Upland.

Matreyek Homes Inc. of Upland has submitted a preliminary draft of an environmental impact report to the city on the proposed Upland Hills Country Club.

In all, the project would cover the largest area of remaining vacant land in the city.

Plans for the project show a par-70, 5,716-yard golf course covering 130 acres. Private streets lining the fairways would provide sites for the 556 condominiums.

Bill Matreyek, president of the firm, said other features of the project include a mini-convention center with seating for 400 persons, a hotel with 100 to 120 rooms, seven or eight shops totaling 24,000 square feet, a dinner house with lounge, a coffee shop and recreation facilities.

The land is bordered by Campus Avenue and a Southern California Edison Co. substation on the west, an extension of 17th Street and Pacific Rock and Gravel Co. operations on the north, homes near Cucamonga Creek on the east and an extension of 15th Street and the substation on the south.

On a map, the area looks a bit like two overlapping rectangles with 16th Street running through the center of the project.

Matreyek said the firm hopes to break ground in March and estimated completion of the entire project could take three years.

He added that work would begin first on the golf course, which Matreyek said could be completed six months after ground breaking depending on how the work schedule matches the summer growing season.

Work on the first of 18 planned phases of home construction would begin at the same time, Matreyek said.

Last week's staff newsletter, an in-house wrap-up of activities by city departments, said, "The city currently has one of the most extensive and probably interesting proposals to come before it in many years, if not in the city's entire history."

Along with a full-scale environmental review, the project will require a general plan amendment and zone changes from the city before getting off the ground.

Matreyek representatives and city officials are conferring on the preliminary draft for the environmental impact report. The document covers some 200 pages.

Planning Director Bill Young noted the report will be circulated among a variety of public agencies for review and comment before the environmental review is completed.

He said flood control will be one of the major questions addressed. The vacant acreage currently serves as flood control plains.

The San Antonio Land Co. owns the land south of 16th Street, and the San Antonio Water Co. owns the property to the north. The city owns just over half the shares of stock in the water company and about 28 percent of the shares in the land company.

Young called the project a "very special case," noting the city currently has no general plan designation particularly suited for the development. He said there are "legal questions to reconcile" on the appropriate designation.

The general plan amendment may come before the planning commission in December, he said.

An innovative feature of the project calls for on-site sewage treatment through a plant in the northwest corner of the project, and Matreyek said the plant would blend with the overall development.

The plant would provide secondary treatment making the water suitable for irrigation of the golf course. Matreyek said the system is designed to treat 150,000 to 200,000 gallons of effluent a day from homes north of the project.

Young noted that since the project would treat more effluent than generated by the development, the project may be considered for relief from Upland's growth management plan.

That plan, closely tied to limits on regional sewage treatment capacity, currently allows approval of 500 residential units annually, based on a point-rating system.

Matreyek estimated that condominiums in the project would sell for $90,000 to $122,000 each. Their owners would have certain preferential treatment on starting times at the golf course, but the course would be open to the public, he added.

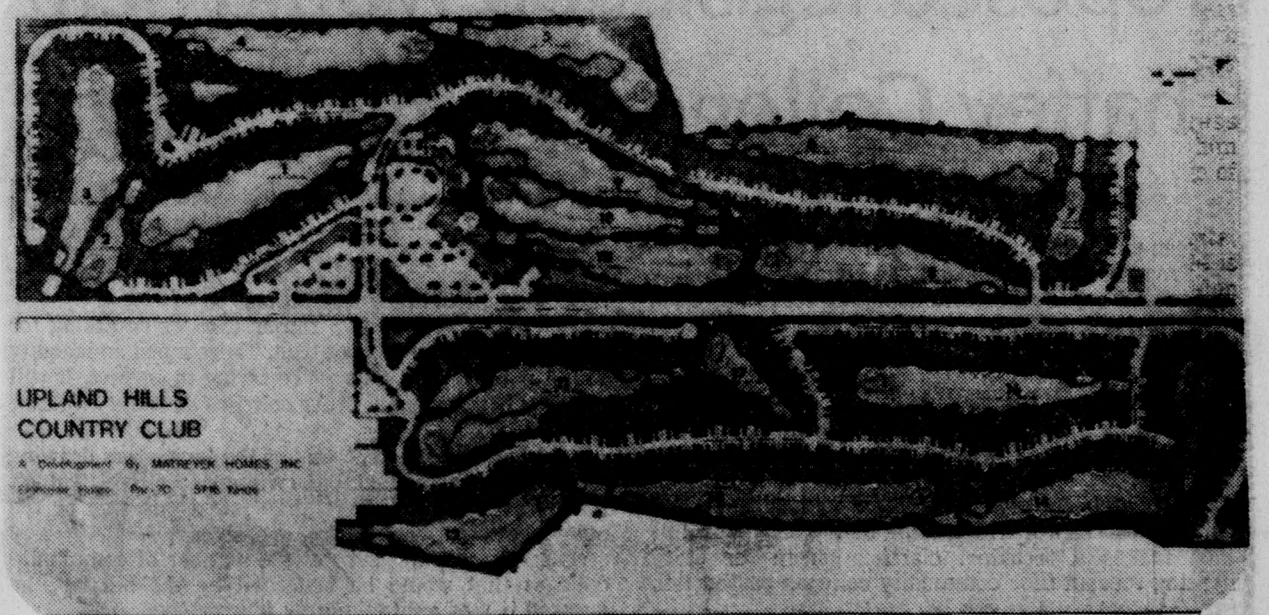

Homes would be built in phases of 35 to 40 homes each, with a pool constructed for common use by each of the condominium groups, he said.

Plans include six tennis courts, including an exhibition court, and a pro shop, Matreyek said.

He added that the hotel and light industrial park in the northeast are "two or three years down the road" in the overall development.

Price terms on the land have been reached, and Matreyek said the firm has an option on the property and would go into escrow as the project moves ahead.

Earlier this year, The Mayer Group Inc. of Downey dropped plans for a planned community on the site, and Matreyek said four or five other firms sought the acreage before his company's offer won out.

Above rendering shows the layout of the proposed Upland Hills Country Club, a planned community featuring an 18-hole, par-70 golf course. Bill Matreyek, president of Matreyek Homes Inc. in Upland, said the entire project — including residential, commercial and industrial uses — may total $75 million. The site covers 226 acres on both sides of 16th Street between Campus Avenue and Cucamonga Creek in Upland. To right, map shows how the 556 proposed condominium units on private streets would line the golf course fairways. Matreyek estimated the selling price of the homes at $90,000 to $122,000. ## Two enter race for Upland mayor

Upland's campaign for mayor got off to an early start Thursday when both John McCarthy, the council's mayor pro tem, and William "Doyle" Alexander, a property investment consultant, announced their candidacies.

McCarthy's announcement was prompted by news that Mayor George Gibson will not seek re-election next April 8. Gibson also made his expected announcement on Thursday.

Alexander, who goes by Doyle, has had his campaign under way unofficially and coincidentally chose Thursday to make his announcement.

Of the three other council members, Frank Hoover and Ina Petokas said they do not intend to seek the mayor's post. Bill Bottin, a potential candidate, could not be reached for comment.

John McCarthy

McCarthy, 60, has served as the council's mayor pro tem for more than nine years, since he was first elected in 1970. And he has been the largest vote getter in each of his three elections to the council.

McCarthy served in the Upland Police Department for more than 19 years, attaining the rank of captain before forced to retire in January 1969 with a disability, a hip injury. He previously served in law enforcement in New York.

McCarthy stressed his availability to devote time to the job, adding, "With my knowledge, experience and understanding of the position, the transition of mayoral duties will be a smooth and practical one, which will be beneficial to the entire community."

He noted he has frequently filled in as mayor during Gibson's absence from the city and that, in addition to his own assignments, has served as the mayor's alternate on various boards and committees.

"It is my intent to continue my established priorities to make Upland a desirable, enjoyable and safe community in which to work and live. I will strive to continue a level of service to attain these goals by operating the city within our means and with the least impact on our taxpayers."

McCarthy stressed police and fire service as high priorities. He said Upland is prepared for living within the new financial constraints of Proposition 4 and that he concurred with its concept.

"In (close to) 10 years on the council, I have always been an independent individual not committed to any special interest groups."

Noting many of his concerns, such as quality of development, have run parallel to the Gibson's, McCarthy "questioned" whether he would have sought the office had Gibson announced for re-election.

"My basic concerns are with the city, and I feel we should have someone competent to occupy the mayor's position," he said.

McCarthy and his wife, Eileen, have five grown children.

Doyle Alexander

Doyle Alexander, 51, is a newcomer to running for an Upland office, but not to the city.

He was born in Upland and, except for two stints in the Navy during World War II and church service, he is a lifelong resident of the city.

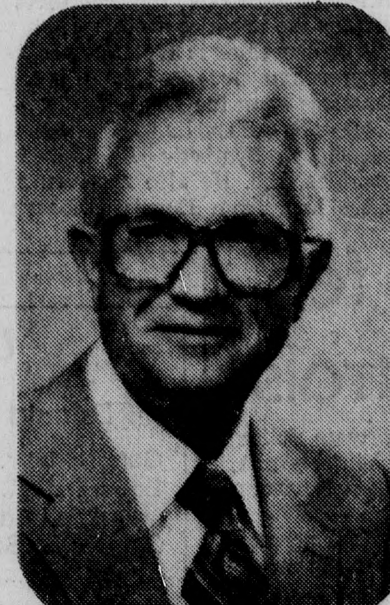

Alexander is the co-owner of AB Consultants, a property investment consulting firm in Upland. In this capacity, he offers advice on commercial and industrial developments and large land holdings. Much of the business deals with projects outside the city, he said.

He is president of the Foothill Gardens Homeowners Association, chairman of the Spiritual Aims Committee of the Upland Kiwanis Club and a former member of the Upland Police Auxiliary and the 20-30 (United Way) Club.

Alexander has also held a number of positions with the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Alexander said he supports efforts to bring public paramedic service to Upland through the fire department. Those efforts "should be encouraged with the full backing and weight of the office of the mayor," he said.

He also emphasized the security

William Alexander

of residents, particularly senior citizens, saying, "It would be my hope as mayor not to be lost as one voice on the council" when the subject is considered.

Noting his support for various youth sports groups, Alexander called youth activities "very dear to me." He said if funds can be found he backs further city support of the activities, adding, "Each dollar spent with youths could save thousands of dollars later on."

"I feel it is a time to have new faces — someone with new ideas rather than hang onto the old, which we have done in Upland for many years."

He also said his business experience would be an asset to him as mayor, particularly in a time of revenue limits.

Alexander and his wife, Berta, have six children. Charles Toole is serving as Alexander's campaign manager and Bob Sutton is his consultant.

It's easy to forget those smoggy days

On a clear day in the West End you can almost see forever but on a smoggy day....

These two photographs, taken by staff photographer Craig Swanson, focus on the San Bernardino and Devore freeway interchange east of the Ontario Motor Speedway.

The first was taken on Sept. 13 when the smog levels in Southern California reached hazardous levels. That smog siege was the worst in 17 years in the West End.

The photo at right was taken this week when there was no inversion layer to hold the pollution close to the ground and light winds from the desert kept the pollution from concentrating. Smog levels will remain low at least for the next few days with clearing skies from rains this week.

Proposed legislation would help Chaffey College with financing

By STEVE STANDERFER
Staff Writer

"Clean-up" legislation that would help alleviate some post-Proposition 13 financial problems for Chaffey College and other state community colleges has been written by board member Jimmy Gutierrez and Steve Wallace.

The first draft was written by the two men and it should be one of the first bills introduced into the legislature by Assemblyman Bill McVittie in January. Gutierrez and McVittie are with the same Chino law firm.

Wallace, legislative analyst and marketing director for Chaffey, describes the legislation as a "clean-up" bill which makes a technical clarification in the state financing measure for community colleges passed this year.

If it passes, the bill could have its real effect next fiscal year by bringing approximately $735,000 more to Chaffey in state funding, Wallace said.

What the revision does is make the base calculations for average daily attendance (ADA) in 1977-78 consistent with following years, Gutierrez said.

In 1978-79 when Chaffey's ADA dropped, the state no longer permitted the school to count some handicapped students and senior citizens in non-credit programs as part of the ADA while in 1977-78 they were counted.

While Chaffey's enrollment is higher in credit programs this year, it is still below the 1977-78 ADA which included noncredit programs. Thus, if the college were to have the ADA based the same in 1977-78 as in previous years, Chaffey College would be receiving more money.

Wallace sternly denied a rumor that has been going around about the new legislation.

"There's a very active rumor that we're asking for special treatment. It's not true. There's just an inequity in the (bailout) bill that we're trying to correct. It will not only benefit us but other colleges as well," Wallace said.

Asked what the intent was of the legislators drawing up the original bailout bill, Wallace replied, "I don't think there was any legislative intent one way or the other. I think it was just an oversight."

Gutierrez was not sure of the number of community colleges that would be benefited by the bill but, he guessed it was approximately four or five.

"In developing this bill we've tried to do three things," Wallace said.

"First of all we tried to develop language that would not disrupt community college financing statewide, we tried to draft a bill that wouldn't have a financially adverse effect on any other college and we tried to devise a bill as simple and as direct as possible."

"And I think we've accomplished that well," Wallace said.

The bill will now go to McVittie's office for any revision of language needed and then it will go legislative counsel in Sacramento for research of legal implications.

Congress funds practice of windbreak planting

Planting trees or shrubs for windbreaks is just one of the 12 conservation practices being cost-shared through the 1980 Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) funded by Congress for San Bernardino County.

The windbreak program will be cost-shared up to 50 percent with a $3,500 maximum per practice. No planting program may begin before approval by the County ASC Committee.

The sign-up period to receive cost-sharing has already begun and will end on Nov. 16. Interested individuals should call Louis Pryor, director of the ASCS Committee in Lancaster at (805) 942-9549 for an application.

The ASCS committee has placed a high priority on wind erosion for the 1980 ACP program. George Schutte of the West End Resource Conservation District (RCD) can explain the program for interested individuals. The RCD does not distribute the ACP money. However, they advise the ASCS Committee about the landusers need or desire to put in the conservation practices.

Legislator ok's contract funds

Goggin bill aids contributors

Assemblyman Terry Goggin, D-66th District, has failed to kill legislation authorizing $4 million for state contracts being sought by his political contributors, despite a promise Goggin made to Assembly Speaker Leo T. McCarthy.

Goggin represents a portion of Rancho Cucamonga in addition to Fontana, Rialto, San Bernardino and surrounding areas.

McCarthy said he asked Goggin to kill the funding measure after he learned that the legislator had received $15,500 in political contributions from an Australian firm seeking contracts funded by Goggin's legislation.

The speaker said he met with Goggin just before the bill came up on the Assembly floor. "When he left my office, I thought I had an agreement with him to remove the (funding) agreement," McCarthy said.

Goggin denied making such an agreement but acknowledged McCarthy asked him to remove from the bill language authorizing $4 million in state money for research to explore the use of clean coal in internal combustion engines.

The San Bernardino assemblyman is currently chairman of the Ways and Means subcommittee that screens the entire budget for the state Energy Commission, which includes proposals for contracts such as the clean coal project.

It was revealed in September that Goggin had accepted $10,000 in donations from the Australian Coal Conversion Co. and its wholly owned subsidiary, Synthetic Alternative Energies, Inc. He also received a $5,500 loan from Dennis Krieger, Goggin's stockbroker and an organizer of the two firms.

Goggin is also a stockholder with Sundance Oil Co., which has substantial interests in commercialization of clean coal technology. The company is connected with Synthetic Alternative Energies, Inc.

The assemblyman admitted earlier that he may have been "a little naive" in accepting the donations, but said Coal Conversion Co. has developed a method of reducing air pollution emissions from coal combustion "to zero."

County raises fee for private patrols

County sheriff's deputies performing private police work at public gatherings will get a raise beginning next month as a result of action by the board of supervisors Monday.

The supervisors, told that the fee charged for private policing of public gatherings and special private patrol services, set at $9.71 per hour, had not been changed since August 1978.

Salary rates and county overhead costs have increased significantly since that time, said Law and Justice Agency Administrator Bernard Boers in a written memo to the board, and an increase in the rates charged to organizers of private events will enable the county to pay the deputies the maximum hourly rate and to fully recover all overhead costs.

The new rate, approved by board members Monday, will be $11.50 per hour. The deputy will get $9.89 of the fee, with the remainder going to county overhead, including worker's compensation insurance.

During the 1978-79 fiscal year, the county collected $138,000 for private law enforcement services. That figure is expected to amount to $164,000 this year as a result of the increase. About $14,000 of this amount will offset the county's overhead costs.

At Chino General Hospital

Nuclear camera aids diagnosis

By BOB NAGEY
Staff Writer

A $140,000 nuclear camera that measures the flow of blood and air in the body is used at Chino General Hospital to detect early stages of heart trouble, brain damage, cancer and other internal ailments.

The machine, one of the most modern in the valley, works like a video tape with a computer.

A patient is injected with isotope. The radiation is picked up by tubes from the camera and turned into light impulses. The impulses are projected onto a video screen and photographed on X-ray film. Then an attached computer measures how much blood and air is getting through the circulatory system.

If any part of the system is clogged and blood doesn't flow properly, the computer records that. If there is a collection of alien cells in the body, such as in the case of cancer, the computer reports that. If there is a liver or kidney malfunction, the computer catches it.

And, conveniently, the machine is portable. It can be taken into the patient's room.

"The nuclear camera is giving our doctors an opportunity for earlier, more accurate diagnosis," Dan Woolf, administrator of Chino General Hospital, explained. "This is a noninvasive (nonsurgical) method so it's much safer than an operation."

The amount of radiation used is about twice as much as an ordinary chest X-ray, well within the tolerance of the human body. The diagnosis takes about 45 minutes and costs between $300 and $400.

Since the nuclear camera was installed in the hospital last July, nearly 100 body scans a month have been taken, and that was without the benefit of hardly any publicity.

School chief hits reports by state agency representative

The state Department of Education representative to the San Bernardino County Committee on School District Organization does not report facts accurately to the committee, the Etiwanda School District superintendent has charged.

Superintendent Carleton Lightfoot, during a regular meeting of the district's board of trustees, accused Field Representative Anthony Turcotte of advocating unification rather than providing information.

The committee is responsible for reviewing a proposal to unify all nine West End school districts into three new ones. Only the Ontario-Montclair School District has expressed support of the proposal.

"Some information received from the state is not necessarily the way it's supposed to be," Lightfoot told the trustees. "We've written a letter in opposition to the state representative and we've sent it off to the county superintendent of schools."

Lightfoot said that if another more objective representative of the state Department of Education was attending the meetings, his criticism and that of other districts would not be so high.

In related action, the board of trustees authorized payment of $1,700 to the law firm of Parker and Covert of Santa Ana for handling a lawsuit to halt the unification plan.

Other school districts in the West End will be paying or have already paid their own share of the fee to the law firm, Lightfoot added.

Woolf says. Doctors are sold on the accuracy and convenience of the diagnostic machine, which is available on a 24-hour basis, in case of emergency, according to the administrator.

"When the program hits its stride we probably will have hundreds of scans a month," he declared. "So in anticipation, we are expanding our Cardio Rehabilitation Center."

The expanded center will include a rehabilitation program, nutritional advice, social service, first aid, and an exercise program, both for in- and out-patients.

"What we'll be emphasizing is a short-term hospital care and a long-term outside program," Woolf explained.

Don Cornett, chief technologist of the radiology department, said the nuclear scans will not replace the angiogram, an exploratory process now used to determine how severely arteries are clogged or narrowed, but it will reduce the number of such surgeries.

"Sometimes angiograms are used to find out whether there is an arterial problem in the first place," he explained. "Other times they are used to determine whether a person is a good candidate for open heart surgery. With the nuclear camera doctors will be able to determine those things without surgery. Angiograms will be used not for exploration but to pinpoint the problem and make final determinations."

He says the machine also can be used to detect cancer.

"Although it will not pick up single cells, the machine will show collections of alien cells or tumors, particularly if the flow of blood is impaired," he said.

Woolf said enlargement of the cardio care center will not necessitate expansion of the hospital. He said the obstetrical unit, which the hospital dropped recently because too many beds were not being used, will be converted for that purpose.

Girl Scout met founder

There aren't too many Girl Scouts who have ever had the pleasure of meeting their founder, Juliette Low. Beatrice (Buddy) Russell of Claremont is one of these lucky few.

Mrs. Russell is now entering her 60th year of continuous membership and will be honored at a tea Nov. 16 at South Hills Country Club in West Covina. The event will be hosted by Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council, of which Mrs. Russell is a member-at-large on the board of directors. More than 200 adults are expected to attend.

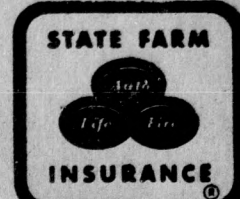

Mrs. Russell began her membership in 1919 as a high school freshman in New York. It was there that she had her brief encounter. Buddy recalls vividly the day Mrs. Low spoke to her. "I had come down to the Girl Scout headquarters to complete some badge requirements. While I was admiring a portrait of Juliette Low, someone came and stood beside me. The lady was unknown to me except I recognized her as an adult Girl Scout by her uniform. She very simply asked me about my Girl Scouting and if I enjoyed it. About this time my leader walked into the room and saw the 'stranger' with me. 'Do you know who that was,' she asked. I was overwhelmed when she told me, 'That was The Mrs. Low.' It was an experience I will never forget."

Buddy enjoys sharing her story with girls and adults alike. She totally inspires them with her own enthusiasm for the Girl Scout program. Her membership has never lapsed in her 60 years. It has continued through school, college, career and marriage.

She has been a member of the board of directors with the Girl Scouts in Evanston, Ill., where she was also president; Tokyo, Japan; and currently with Spanish Trails. She has been president of the YWCA in Evanston.

Mrs. Russell has been an active public speaker with all of her organizations and is presently a member of the newly formed Speakers Bureau for Spanish Trails.

Gas bills are going up.

But there is something you can do about it.

This winter, you'll be paying as much as 60% more than a year ago for the same quantity of gas.

Why?

About 90% of our gas supply comes from out-of-state companies. These suppliers have drastically increased their prices because:

It is becoming more difficult and costly to locate natural gas.

Exploration and production costs have risen due to double digit inflation.

New federal law, designed to stimulate production, allows the well-head price of gas to increase substantially.

As a result, the price we have to pay for gas has gone up more in the past seven months than it has in the last three years.

While rates have gone up, there are things you can do to keep your gas bill as low as possible.

Set your thermostat no higher than 68° during the day and 55° or OFF at night. Take shorter showers. Wash only full loads of dishes and clothes. Turn your water heater control below medium. (Heating and water heating account for up to 88% of your winter bill.)

Besides using gas wisely, you can make your home more energy efficient. Insulating your attic to R-19, weatherstripping doors and windows, and installing a water heater insulation blanket are just a few of the things you can do.

For more tips on how to save gas, call our toll-free Conservation Hotline at 1-800-252-9090. From area code 209 call collect 213-689-3334.

We know that higher gas rates are not good news. But remember, all energy costs have risen and natural gas is still your best energy value.

The Upland High School Band and Marching Units continued to show outstanding ability by winning awards in each category at the Rancho Cucamonga Founders' Day Parade. Eileen Meyer, drum major, led the Highlander band to a first-place victory while she, herself, won first place for execution of the mace. In addition, the Hi-Lassie Drill Team and Tall Flags Units each garnered second-place trophies. The organization will participate in several upcoming events, next of which is the West Arcadia Band Review Saturday. To support their activities, band units are engaged in a year-long paper collection drive. Paper products may be contributed by calling 985-1785 or 985-8623 to arrange for pickup.

In Claremont

Expert offers finance seminar

Dr. Robert Anthony, lecturer, author and behavioral scientist, will be in Claremont to present his "Money Seminar" on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the First Church of Religious Science, 509 S. College Ave., Claremont.

Anthony has conducted lectures and seminars throughout the United States and Europe. His continuous contact and consultation with people in business, professional and sales fields is attested to by the record number of successful repeat seminars and workshops he gives each year.

His background includes Ph.D. in psychology from the University of California as well as extensive experience in human relations, motivational self improvement, sales, hypnosis, self-image psychology and metaphysics. He has been featured on NBC, CBS, and ABC television.

The "Money Seminar" tells the truth about money. "Everyone attracts or repels money through his own consciousness. The wealth or lack of wealth you are experiencing today is the result of your ideas of yesterday. Wealth cannot be achieved or maintained until one understands, experiences and applies the dynamic principles of a wealth consciousness. Making money is a skill. It is important to realize that the 'art' of making money is a skill and like any other skill it can be learned. The success of the Money Seminar has nothing to do with how much money you have or don't have. What the Money Seminar will do is to draw a straight line from where you are right now to where you want to be. You will be given step-by-step instructions that will enable you to create more money and accomplish your financial goals.

"Each participant will be able to apply his new found skills immediately regardless of present financial conditions. The Money Seminar is designed for any individual, group or corporation interested in greater financial growth through the dynamic principles of creative thinking and creative action. Learn step-by-step how to: increase your money flow; achieve a success image recognizable to others; have an understanding of why nothing or no one can stand in your way of financial success; rise above inflation and beyond recession to unlimited financial freedom; watch your sales soar as you use the natural laws of prosperity; break through the stress barrier, work less for more success."

Registration begins at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the church foyer. There will be a charge for the seminar.

Persons may call 624-3549 for more information.

Vandalism, accidents cost GTE $2.1 million last year

It's a scene that's repeated daily. An individual rushes up to a public telephone only to find the instrument damaged and possibly out of order. It's a frustrating and often times needless experience.

Intentional vandalism and accidental damage is a continuing problem for the General Telephone Company in its vast Eastern Area, which stretches from Pasadena to the Salton Sea.

Vandalism related expenses cost the utility more than $2.1 million in its Eastern Area last year.

The deliberate attacks on public telephones and booths are as varied as the accidents which occasionally knock the units out of service.

"As an example," states King "within the last year we had about 30 incidents of all the side panel glass being removed from various booths in one area. After a thorough investigation we discovered that the glass was being cut and used to make fish tanks."

The company is seeking new ways to discourage vandalism.

Just Shake it and Let it Fall Into Place. The Precision Haircut.

Because your head is unique, the way your hair grows is equally unique. Really quite different from every one else's.

Precision haircutting is a technique for cutting the hair in harmony with the way it grows. Your hair eventually grows out but it doesn't lose its shape with a precision haircut. Consequently your haircut will look as good after five days as it does after five minutes. And because the hair falls naturally into place you won't have to keep fussing with it. Usually a shake of the head does it.

At Command Performance we shampoo, precision-cut and blow dry your hair for sixteen dollars, whether you're a gal or a guy. And no appointments are ever necessary.

We also offer permanent waves, coloring, frosting and conditioning. But we really shine with precision. And so will you.

Charity drive wasn't phony, just mishandled

By ROBERT LEE
Staff Writer

What appeared to be a phony charity drive to benefit a nonexistent burn ward at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland turns out to be only a bungled charity drive.

The state Division of Forestry Employees Association in San Bernardino County was attempting to raise funds with a benefit rodeo to be held at the University of Redlands. But problems began when employees of the company hired by the firefighters to sell tickets started giving false information in their sales pitch.

Jim Rismuller, president of the association, said his group had a two-year contract with Three-L-Enterprises of Anaheim to promote the rodeo, to be held Dec. 16.

Apparently, Rismuller explained, the sales pitches used at the office set up in Ontario by the company "got a little bit out of hand" with statements that the money would go toward establishment of burn wards at local hospitals.

Rismuller said the telephone solicitors should have said that proceeds of the rodeo would be used in various activities since the firefighters had not decided what charities to donate the money to.

Because of the false statements being given, the Ontario office was closed down and the employees association canceled the remaining year on the contract with Three-L, said Rismuller.

He added that the Ontario office was only open two weeks.

Rismuller said anyone who wants a refund for the tickets can write to the California Department of Forestry Employees Association, P.O. Box 3606, San Bernardino 92405.

For those persons who don't want a refund, the rodeo will be held Dec. 16 at 1:30 p.m. at the University of Redlands.

Students told job options

In today's society opportunities abound for both men and women. As a result of this, making students aware of the many job options open to them has been given top priority in the Chino Unified School District.

Granted federal funds to further implement this goal of job option education, a program entitled Project SEE, (Sex Equity in Education) was founded by the district. Coordinated by former district teacher Linda Nielsen, this program's major thrust is in informing district students as to career opportunities and the negative effects of sex stereotyping.

According to Ms. Nielsen, "children learn from their environment. All too often the message they receive in this society is that privilege is based on class, sex and race."

As a means of modifying these negative influences, Ms. Nielsen meets not only with students but also district employees, making information available concerning laws dealing with equal opportunities and stressing the importance of creating a heightened self-awareness among all

In addition to making students more aware of job opportunities, Project SEE is also responsible for bringing the school district into compliance with a federal law referred to as Title IX. This statute, which was passed in 1972 and put into effect in 1975, says, in effect, that no person shall be excluded on the basis of sex from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subject to discrimination under any education program or activity receiving federal financial assistance.

Anti-burglary bill backed by McVittie

The "rob a home, go to jail" legislation initiated by Los Angeles County Supervisors' Chairman Kenneth Hahn has received the support of two more members of the State Assembly Criminal Justice Committee. Assemblymen John T. Knox (D-Contra Costa) and Bill McVittie, D-65th District.

The bill, which requires mandatory sentencing for convicted burglars, has already passed the State Senate 32-0 and is set to be heard by the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee in January. The endorsement of Knox and McVittie should prove a key element in moving the bill quickly through the committee and on to a vote of the full Assembly early in the 1980 session.

"Assemblyman Knox and Assemblyman McVittie told me personally that they feel this legislation will be a major step forward in the fight against the crime of burglary," Hahn said.

Team to stage dribble-a-thon to raise funds

Water polo team members from Alta Loma High School will conduct a Dribble-a-thon on Friday at 3 p.m. in the school pool. Purpose is to secure money for water polo team equipment.

Farmers can get funds for conservation

Animal waste control facilities and irrigation water conservation are only two of the 12 conservation practices being funded through the 1980 Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) funded by Congress for San Bernardino County.

All practices will be cost-shared up to 50 percent with a $3,500 maximum per practice. No practice may be started prior to approval by the County ASC Committee.

The sign up period has already begun and will end on Nov. 16. Interested landusers should call Louis Pryor, ASCS Committee Director at (805) 942-9549 for an application.

Requests for cost-sharing will be for practices to be performed during 1980 and practices to be performed under long-term agreements that are needed on the farms to solve major problems.

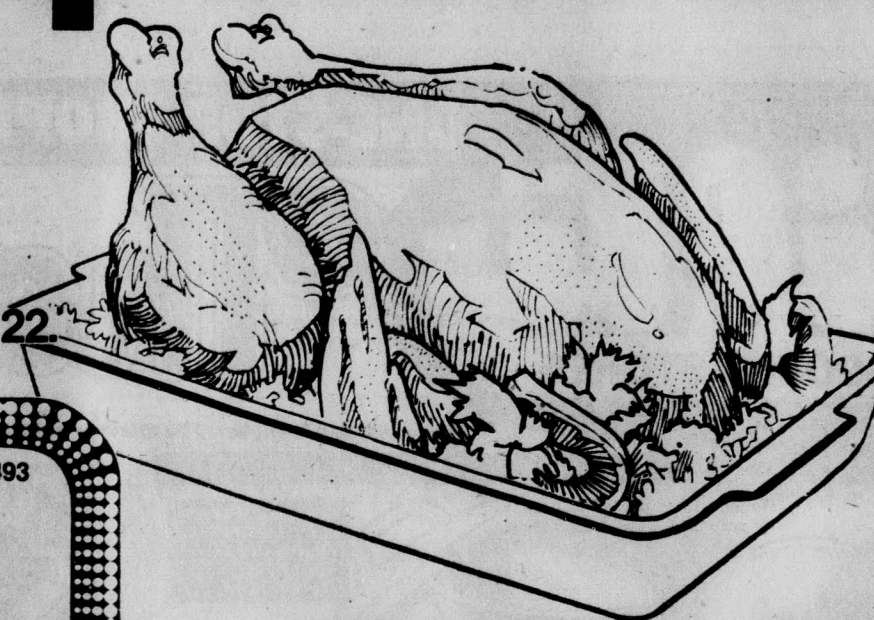

George Schutte, manager of the West End RCD, stated: "Dairymen could be eligible for cost-sharing to meet the requirements of the Water Quality Control Board and should act now if they wish to be considered. Many other landusers might be interested in the windbreak program being cost-shared in 1980."

Solar discussion

The Solar Power Tower Project a solar power plant developed by Southern California Edison Company and the U.S. Department of Energy, and the role of utilities in solar energy, will be the subject of a discussion and film presentation by Southern California Edison Company representatives tonight at 8 p.m. in the Founder's Room of McConnell Center on the Pitzer campus.

Part of the 1979-1980 speakers series, "Solar Energy: The Quiet Revolution," this event is sponsored jointly by the Pitzer College Solar Colloquium, the California Institute for Public Policy and the Public Policy Program of the Claremont Graduate School.

Located in the desert near Barstow, the Solar Power Tower Project is the first joint solar venture in this country involving the U.S. government and a utility company.

Awareness seminar

Beginning on Friday from 7:30 - 9 p.m., and continuing on Saturday from 10-4, a "Mental Awareness" seminar will be held. Both meetings are open to the public and will be held at Astara, 800 W. Arrow Highway, Upland.

Both the class and the seminar will be conducted by Joseph D'Albert and are intended to help the individual scientifically control and physically focus thoughts to achieve better concentration and command confidence in all situations. D'Albert will discuss using simple but powerful training techniques to turn a poor memory into an excellent, useful one. He will also discuss other interesting and valuable powers of the mind which can be beneficial when used on a day to day basis.

A tuition will be charged for the Friday evening class and the Saturday seminar. For more information, call (714) 981-4941.

Bach concert

Bach's gentle, somber "Komm Susser Tod" will open the Citrus College Wind Symphony concert season at 8 p.m. Friday at Citrus College Auditorium.

The public is invited, free of charge.

Other selections to be played include "Elegy for a Young American" by Ronald Lo Presti; Wagner's "Introduction to the Third Act of Lohengrin;" "The Sinfonians," a symphonic march by Clifton Williams; "Liturgical Music for Band" by Martin Mailman; selections from "Oliver!" by Lionel Bart; and "The New Colonial March" by R.B. Hall.

In addition, Rick Davis, a graduate of Azusa Pacific College and a resident of Glendora, will conduct Bartok's "Four Pieces for Band." Davis was chosen as student conductor by the members of the wind symphony in September.

Presentations by the brass quintet and percussion ensemble will round out the evening's concert, according to Dr. Anthony Desiderio, director of instrumental organizations for Citrus College. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the program.

Membership in the Citrus College Wind Symphony includes musicians from the surrounding communities as well as Citrus College students.

African Violet Society

Adelaide Kory of Northridge will speak on the Texas method of raising African violets at the Pomona Valley African Violet Society meeting Monday.

Members and guests will gather Marshall Hall, United Methodist Church, 3205 D St., La Verne.

Plant and supply sales begin at 9:45 a.m. Guy Gammon of San Gabriel will conduct a culture class on soil Ph requirements at 10:30 a.m.

The program will begin at 12:30 p.m. following a sack luncheon. Dessert and beverage will be provided.

Holiday cuisine

Recently-opened San Dimas Mansion will feature holiday cuisine for Thanksgiving from noon to 10 p.m., reported manager Nancy Huebner.

Entrees for the holiday will include pheasant, lamb, veal Oscar and stuffed sole Florentine. A variety of fresh vegetables, potatoes, salads and desserts will be served.

"Because of the mansion's historic appeal," said Huebner, "patrons should find the restaurant especially attractive for the traditional holiday."

A 100-year-old landmark, the mansion has nostalgic, as well as sentimental charm to many Southern Californians. It is one of the few remaining structures of the early California gold rush days.

Originally built as a hotel to house the large influx of settlers during that period, the mansion was the site for numerous Thanksgiving dinners.

Open since Nov. 7, the restaurant is located at 121 N. San Dimas Ave. Holiday reservations are invited at (714) 599-9391.

Workshop set

Parents of handicapped children can sometimes be overwhelmed by the information given them, the medical terms used, and their rights under law, the choices they must make for the care and education of their children.

Parent Advocacy Training (PAT) workshops, developed by the Children's Services Center some years ago, provide parents of handicapped children the information and skills needed to become active participants in the child's treatment and education.

A six-week class at the Children's Services Center is offered in conjunction with Pomona Adult School, Pomona Unified School District, beginning Thursday evening, Nov. 29, 7-9:30 p.m. and continuing Dec. 6, 13 and Jan. 10, 17, and 24. Nancy Clark, parent counselor and coordinator of Early Development Support Services (EDSS), will teach the course.

Another training course in parent advocacy, with classroom observation, will be held Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, 9-11 a.m., from Nov. 19 to Jan. 18, with a two-week break for the holidays. Elizabeth Neumann, Ph.D., director of the Children's Services Center, will be the instructor.

Additional information regarding the PAT classes can be obtained by calling Nancy Clark, (714) 593-7521, extension 275 or 277.

Elly Ameling to sing

Dutch soprano Elly Ameling will perform on Saturday, Nov. 17 at 8 p.m. in Caltech's Beckman Auditorium.

Her great idea: print U.S. money in red ink

By DONALD C. BAUDER
Copley News Service

Most great ideas come after years and years of study and intense cerebration.

However, some great ideas come spontaneously. Take the case of Francine Neff. She is the only treasurer of the United States to have suggested that money be printed in red ink, to match the federal budget.

It was in 1974, and Neff had just been sworn in as treasurer. She was attending her first Treasury convocation, chaired by then-Secretary of the Treasury William Simon. One matter on the agenda was to make final plans for a new batch of paper currency, which would bear Neff's and Simon's signatures.

All the dignitaries were sitting around a huge, shiny table — assistant secretaries, under secretaries, the comptroller of the currency and such. When it was her time to speak, Neff said, "We should print our money in red, as long as we're running such a big government deficit."

The others chuckled. Simon was in deep thought. "That's a hell of an idea," Simon burst out, "and all the laughter died down," recalled Neff in an interview.

Of course, the bills were printed in the usual color: "We had all that green ink in storage. It wouldn't have been economical," she said.

However, the news got out, and "I got so much mail that it took months to open it. It was 50-50. About half said I should shut up, didn't I know what a great thing we had going? The other half said, 'Where have you been all my life?'"

Today, perhaps 75 percent would be favorable, Neff said, "because the public now perceives the problem. Inflation has made them understand it."

In fact, getting the public to understand some of today's problems is just what is occupying Neff these days. She is vice president for business development for Albuquerque's Rio Grande Valley Bank, and this year she is one of 24 bankers chosen by the American Bankers Association to tour the United States and talk with people about such topics as personal money management.

Recently, however, the focus shifted dramatically. Instead of explaining the kinds of services banks provide, she is now asked to talk about lending services banks will not be providing. This is, after all, a period of tight money, and the banks are planning how they will cut back.

She was at the ABA convention in New Orleans when the Fed came out with its bombshell to defend the dollar and tighten money and credit. "Everyone felt it was a call to duty and said we will do everything we can to help stem the inflation," she said, although when Comptroller of the Currency John G. Heimann used the words "bank failures" to describe his fears, the bankers got a little queasy.

However, she said, "A time of tight money is a time to make plans. Go to the bank. There is still money," she said. Even if things tighten more, it's still a good time to plot personal financial strategy, she said.

Certainly, tight money will impact housing negatively, "and banks may have to reconsider pricing."

Banks, she said, are working sedulously to solve one of the nation's greatest problems: sadly lagging productivity.

6 smart reasons* to shop at Standard Brands Paint Co.

Standard Brands Paint and Decorating Centers is the EVERYTHING Store for the do-it-yourself home decorator. When we ask our customers why they choose Standard Brands over our competitors, the reasons are always the same. The first reason is . . .

1) Paint The widest selection of finest quality paints. Everything from interior wall paint to exteriors, one-coats and stains, even specialty coatings like roof and texture coatings, furniture refinishers and MORE. Consider the possibilities when each of our many paint lines offers dozens and dozens of designer colors! And custom colors which allow you to create and mix almost any color you can imagine.
Paints: 2.98 to 10.95 per gallon
One-Coats: 5.95 to 10.95 per gallon
PLUS accessory items for EVERY job: ladders to drop cloths, spray equipment to masking tape, brushes and EVERYTHING else you can think of. The second reason is . . .

2) Wallpaper Every store carries thousands of rolls of top quality wallcovering. EVERYTHING ranging from flocks to foils, far-out geometrics to classical florals and traditional prints and stripes, even novelty patterns for that special room, you'll find the best selection at Standard Brands.
Wallpaper: 58¢ to 79.95 per roll

We even have a special order section carrying dozens of books with grasscloths and other textures, unique designer patterns, and next year's styles available NOW! Looking for something else? Take a look at our photo murals! Turn a solid wall into a window facing a breath-taking Hawaiian sunset or nerve-soothing pastoral paradise. PLUS, we have ceramic and mirror tiles, cork, deco brick, wood paneling and panel strips. If it belongs on a wall, we've got it! The third reason is . . .

3) Carpet We carry the finest quality from the nation's leading manufacturers including Cabin Crafts, Walters, Salem, Galaxy and Horizon and others. We stock EVERYTHING from rich luxurious plush piles to elegantly sculpted piles, in a rainbow of colors and deep earth tones. PLUS, we also specialize in prints, and easy-to-install foam backs and stock a full selection of indoor/outdoor carpets and all-weather artificial grass. You'll find a colorful selection of bath carpet. We even have carpet shampoos. Of course, all carpeting is covered by our completely UNCONDITIONAL MONEYBACK GUARANTEE.

Indoor/outdoor carpeting: 1.99 sq. yard
For your convenience, Standard Brands will help arrange for installation. No need to wait. Credit Terms are available. The fourth reason . . .

4) Linoleum & Tile We specialize in highest quality, competitively priced flooring from Armstrong, Congoleum, GAF, Mannington, Amtico and Nafco. PLUS a full line of high fashion budget-priced imports. Cushion-backs, NO-WAX, the finest selection of decorator patterns and colors in a wide price range, geared to fit any floor need.
Linoleum: 1.99 to 24.95 sq. yard.
Floortiles: 14¢ to 2.19 per tile

PLUS we carry EVERYTHING from self-adhesive No Wax vinyl tile, to quarry tile, ceramic and mosaic tiles, a beautiful array of rich parquet wood flooring and much more — all at discount prices. Kitchen, family room, bathroom — there's a floorcovering for every purpose. If it goes on a floor you'll find it at Standard Brands. And the fifth reason is . . .

5) Window Decor We stock an enormous selection of window shades, EVERYTHING from white vinyl through room-darkening and special decorator shades. Our courteous sales personnel are happy to trim them for you FREE while you wait.

Window Shades: 99¢ to 44.95

PLUS we carry EVERYTHING from woven wood to plastic tube blinds, mini blinds to pine and mahogany shutters with matching doors! You'll find a huge selection in each store, and a special order department for those hard to fit windows. And the sixth reason is . . .

6) Art & Hobby Supplies EVERYTHING the artist needs from a great selection of brushes and paints, through canvas, easels, stretcher bars and even frames! We feature names like Grumbacher, Shiva, Liquitex, Strathmore — all at lowest discount prices. And our hobby department stocks EVERYTHING from calligraphy supplies to macrame, clay to candle wax and much, much, more.

PLUS, Standard Brands offers top-notch sales personnel to help you with every purchase. We cover each and every item sold with a completely UNCONDITIONAL MONEYBACK GUARANTEE. And there's plenty of free parking at each convenient location. With the finest quality and the lowest prices in town, you KNOW you're a smart shopper when you look for this sign:

Businesses help

Chino students study careers

Ramona Junior High School was host to approximately 30 representatives from area business and industry last week.

Referred to as the Youth Educational Motivation Program (YEMP), this event draws on volunteers from both the public and private sectors to speak to students on the importance of education and the success that can be achieved from it.

Individuals from businesses such as General Telephone, Pomona Health Center, Latin Peace Officers Association (including representatives from the San Bernardino Sheriff's Department, Probation Department, District Attorney's office, California Highway Patrol, and Ontario Police Department) General Dynamics, LULAC Educational Service Center, Cal Poly Pomona, etc., spoke to third-period class students on an individual basis, showing students how education, or the lack of it, helped or hindered the speakers in their careers.

As stated by Ramona Junior High Counselor, Elyse Mengle, "the intent of the program is to use the volunteers as role models, with students hopefully identifying with the individual speaker's achievements and problems as a result of educational status, and be motivated to reach their full potential. We try to expose our students to a wide variety of vocational areas."

The YEMP Program at Ramona began with an orientation meeting for volunteers. Student guides then met the visitors and escorted a speaker to each third-period classroom. Following the speaker's visits with the students, an evaluation session was held.

An annual event, the program is designed to help students motivate themselves by giving them a chance to determine what they want to do.

According to Augustine Tapia, YEMP Task Force Representative and Chino Unified School District Board of Education Member, "Surveys indicate that the highest drop-out rate is found between the junior high and high school levels. As a result of these findings, the YEMP program strives to alleviate this problem by helping the student find a reason to stay in school."

Local attorney serves as trial bar director

Attorney Harold A. "Hal" Bailin of Ontario has been elected to the board of governors of the 5100-member California Trial Lawyers Association for 1980.

He will represent District 4, which includes San Bernardino and Riverside Counties on the governing body of the nation's largest state trial bar.

Bailin, a city councilman in Upland from 1970 to 1978, received his law degree from Boalt Hall in 1955 and served as a deputy attorney general of California in 1956. He was a chapter director of the San Bernardino - Riverside - Pomona Trial Lawyers from 1965 to 1972.

Arne Werchick of San Francisco, a CTLA vice president the past two years, was elected president to succeed Sanford M. Gage of Beverly Hills.

The election marks the first time a second-generation attorney has been voted into the top office of the state trial bar. Werchick's father, Jack, was a founding member of the group and the only person ever to serve two terms as president, 1964 and 1965. Roberta Ritter of West Los Angeles and William Shernoff of Claremont were elected Southern California vice presidents. It will be Ritter's second term, while Shernoff served as the group's parliamentarian this year.

In pilgrims' manner

Thanksgiving rites set

Dr. John W. Flucke, along with other residents of Pilgrim Place in Claremont, where 300 retired Christian workers make their homes, will lead an unusual Thanksgiving service of worship at the Diamond Bar Congregational Church, Diamond Bar Boulevard near Pathfinder Road, on Nov. 21, at 7:30 p.m., according to Jaime Cayuela, chairman of the board of deacons of the church. Accompanying Flucke will be Mrs. Flucke and the Rev. and Mrs. Carroll Lemon.

The service will revive such practices as a period after the sermon for the congregation to question the preacher on what he has just been led to say to them. Omitted will be "the censures" when the elders of the church sometimes pointed to questionable behavior on the part of members of the congregation that had been called to their attention. During the pastoral prayer the congregation will stand with hands raised over their heads as the Pilgrims did to conform to

St. Paul's admonition to his disciple, Timothy, "to pray lifting holy hands without anger or quarreling."

The Fluckes moved to

Pilgrim Place in 1971 from San Bruno where he held his final full time pastorate before retiring and taking interim assignments. The Lemons retired at Pilgrim Place in 1977. Lemon, a minister of the Disciples of Christ, served for 23 years as executive director of the Nebraska Council of Churches.

Let's Talk

Lonely man never trusted anyone until...

By REV. W. LEE TRUMAN
Copley News Service

Joe was born in Dublin and christened with the name of Joseph M. Scriven. He boasted that he was the man who never trusted anybody, and often said that God's gift to him was his suspicious nature.

Joe never joined any group, nor was he ever known to do anything just for the fun of it. No one, after his death, could recall that he had one childhood or adult acquaintance whom he could have called a friend.

What was so wrong with Joe Scriven? He is now dead, but we can only guess as we look into his past at what so soured Joe on life. Maybe it was an embittered parent or someone else who had only been left with wreckage and heartache in life that made him feel everyone and everything was against him.

Joe became dissatisfied with Dublin and set out to seek a new world and his fortune in Canada. Undoubtedly he was lonely where he came from, but maybe the newness of his surroundings and the strangeness of the people caused him to suffer from humanity's most common disease even more intensely. At any rate, he was still lonely, afraid of making friends, and then it happened. He suddenly fell in love.

She was lovely, lively and exciting, a very unusual creature to be found in a primitive pioneering town. He totally committed himself to this wonderful newfound meaning in his life.

Joe changed. He forgot the distrust at which he had been so skillful, and he gave to her his total self. Joe's life centered on the hope of having her become his wife. But her promise was not kept. She took the ferry to buy her trousseau, and returning across the bay with her wedding clothes on the eve of their wedding, was lost along with all hands in a sudden, violent storm.

Joseph Scriven was alone like he had never been alone in the world before. He made sure that the world would never hurt him again. He carried inside himself a pain which was like an unhealable wound.

Pain can sometimes be too great for human strength to bear, yet where could he turn? The only person he had ever called friend in his life was gone. In his total agony, he fell on his knees and cried out to God as only man in mortal pain can. He wept in the darkness of his room for long hours that night.

He said when he was on his knees he felt God come to him. When he got up, he felt both weak and dazed. He put on his hat and started down the stairs of the boarding house in which he lived. At the bottom of the stairs there was gathered a group of people — the time clerk from the second floor front, the spinster who was always crocheting in the parlor, the secretary to the mayor and one lady with a rather risque reputation. They were all there and reached out to Joe to give him what reassurance they could.

With that gathering was a Methodist circuit rider who took Joe by the arm and led him to the village cafe. Joe Scriven said how amazed he was to find how much sympathy there was in the world, and how much friendship there was around him, shielding him like a coat in a bitter cold wind.

Here's the twist. No one had ever considered Joe Scriven as being either religious or concerned with the church. There is nothing to indicate that Joe had any ability or skill at being able to give comfort or consolation to a single person, yet he had a vision of courage and friendship to offer to millions of grieving people.

Joe Scriven, shattered by his loss and yet deepened by the experience, took his belongings and went to the poor section of town and left them on the doorsteps of persons he considered far less fortunate than himself. He spent the rest of his life in that community cutting wood for the stoves for the poor widows and the sick people who were unable to pay. It was said that often he gave away his warm clothing to those who were cold.

One night by kerosene light, he wrote a hymn that is still sung in countless churches around the world: "What a Friend we have in Jesus, ... all our sins and griefs to bear. What a privilege to carry everything to God in prayer. ..."

Brutality

Beating by berserk man shakes policewoman

By JOHN BERHMAN
Copley News Service
ESCONDIDO

Policewoman Mary Ann Donohue has had many sleepless nights and nightmares in the last few weeks.

In her two years with the

Escondido force, Donohue,

26, has endured a few slaps

in the face from women she had to deal with on duty.

But on Aug. 22, she was punched in the face at a downtown bus stop — the hardest she has ever been hit, she says — by a berserk

member of the opposite sex

who outweighed her by 60

pounds. The punches

continued after she fell to the pavement. Although it was closer to a minute, it seemed to her much longer

before help arrived.

As she was being taken to the hospital for treatment of a dislocated jaw and other head injuries, such thoughts as "What am I doing here," and "Why do I want to be a target for every nut out on the street," ran through her mind.

and for a time Donohue

seriously thought of quitting.

However, she decided she has worked too hard to become a police officer and she cannot just walk away from it.

"They tell you at the Police Academy that these things can happen — they are part of the job — and you have to expect them,"

she said the other day in an interview. "It's one thing to hear them from an instructor, another to have them actually happen."

It was about 9:30 a.m. on

Aug. 22, when Donohue was dispatched as a backup for another officer sent to the intersection where a man was reported to be shouting

at passersby and otherwise

acting incoherently.

Donohue reached the scene first.

The man had told another man sitting on the bus

bench with him "to get off

my bench" and "stop trying to steal my watch."

"I approached him and

asked if there was anything

I could do," Donohue said.

"He pointed to a non-existent badge and said,

"I'm with the FBI. Get away from me."

The man refused to give

Donohue any identification and he continued to shout, saying things like, "Get away from me," and "I don't need any help."

Donohue said she returned to her vehicle to notify the police station that she had a possible mental case on her hands. When she returned, she said, the man "was ranting even more and had become even more irate.

"Then, he reached into his waistband and pulled out his hand making it into the shape of a gun, and said,

"Bang, you're dead."

"And then, with almost

the same motion, he punched me right in the face and I went down. I was really dazed. I'd never been hit so hard."

Donohue said she tried to get up, but the man was over her, hitting her with lefts and rights to the face and head. She tried to fend the blows off with her arms.

"I had thought of trying to pull out my baton, but I was afraid he would get that away from me, and start using it on me — and I knew he could kill me with that."

It was a physical mismatch, Donohue is 5-foot-4 and weighs 130 pounds. Her assailant, a transient, was about 5-foot-

9 and weighed about 190.

Two middle-aged male bystanders came to her aid,

but he tossed both of them

aside. By then, officer

Leonard Geise, who was the officer dispatched

originally, arrived. The man threw Geise, who is 6 feet tall and weighs about

210, against a store window and fled.

By then Donohue had regained her feet and she ran after the man. He stumbled, went down to one knee, and she jumped on his back, taking him down. She and Geise then subdued and handcuffed the suspect, who was later booked on a charge of battery on a police officer.

"I had a lot of second thoughts about the whole thing. Should I have used my baton? Should I have used my gun? Some officers told me later I would have been within my legal rights to shoot him.

"I had a few sleepless nights. And then, when I could get to sleep, I would wake up suddenly because I was having dreams about it.

I think I'm getting over it now, though.

"I think I was right in not using my baton or my gun.

One thing I learned from it, is to be more careful. I approached this situation

without expecting any sort of problem — that won't happen again."

Donohue said she has

wanted to be a police officer

as long as she can remember. She joined the Police Explorer unit in high school when she was 14 and stayed in it until the

November 15, 1977

maximum age of 18. After graduation in 1972, she attended Paloma

Community College for

time and then worked for about five years as a dispensing optician in Escondido — all the while trying to get on with the local police force.

Finally, in May 1977

Donohue became the second woman hired to be a

Escondido police officer.

The first was hired in 196 who worked mainly as a juvenile officer before

quitting in late 1974

Escondido now has three policewomen.

Jason Alumeaugh, 4, and DeAnna Law, 2, right, are all smiles as the parade begins in Rancho Cucamonga. The youngsters watched Miss Piggy, a telephone, lots of horses and many bands go by at the city's first Founders' Day Parade — and they loved it. Spectators young and old turned out to enjoy the new city's festivities.

Rancho Cucamonga celebrates with parade

Two-year-old Andy Nalbach did not have to worry about finding a good vantage point to view Rancho Cucamonga's first Founders' Day Parade, thanks to good ole dad, Tom. And what fun is a parade without a nice balloon to go along with it.

It just goes to show that it does not pay to lose a bet. The men and women of the Rancho Cucamonga Chamber of Commerce challenged each other during a recent membership drive. Can you guess who won?

The entry from Rancho Cucamonga's Bud's Bike Shop took the first place award in the novelty category.

Cal Poly players to present 'Equus'

"Equus," Cal Poly Theater's entry in the American College Theater Festival, will be presented in the University Theater on Campus on Friday at 8 p.m.

This is a play of suspense, ideas, tension in a detective story which intertwines with major philosophical issues. The story centers on Alan, a young man who worships but savagely blinds, horses.

Showing his emotional belligerence toward another horse (Katha Leffer), Manahan strikes out in anguish.

Native American art works displayed

By ILA WALES
Staff Writer

More than 300 native American art works from the Claremont Colleges collection will be displayed for the first time at the Galleries of the Claremont Colleges Saturday through Dec. 19 and Jan. 21 through Feb. 23 at the Lang Gallery, Scripps College, and the Montgomery Gallery, Pomona College.

"Native American Art from the Permanent Collection" includes baskets, quill work, beadwork and ceramics.

The exhibit also includes some objects borrowed from major anthropological collections in the West, including baskets, with special emphasis on California objects; quill work and beadwork from the Plains, Plateau and Great Lakes; and Pre-Columbian and modern ceramics from the Southwest.

In addition, historic photographs of native Americans, including works by Edward S. Curtis, will be shown.

Demonstrations by native American basketmakers and a lecture series featuring noted scholars in native American studies are scheduled during January and February. Gallery hours are from 1 to 5 p.m. daily. Admission is free.

Stitchery and metalsmithing by Mina Brooks Gaston will be displayed this month in the Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association lobby gallery, 399 N. Garey Ave., Pomona.

A home designer and builder in San Dimas for 10 years, she has designed a line of modern Chinese pottery, plates and bowls that is sold in department stores throughout the United States.

Prints from private collections will be shown at the Mt. San Antonio College Art Gallery, 1100 N. Grand Ave., Walnut, through Dec. 6. Gallery hours are from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Monday through Thursday.

An exhibit of the Nag Hammadi Codices, the earliest known books, is displayed at the Claremont Institute for Antiquity and Christianity, 831 Dartmouth Ave., Claremont.

The exhibit is open to the public without charge through Dec. 1. Hours are from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays.

Included are facsimile pages from the codices, the leather cover of one of them, large photographs of the site where they were found and coins and other artifacts from the area.

A seminar entitled "Gnosticism and Early Christianity" is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Dec. 1 and will include a lecture by James M. Robinson, institute director, on the intense competition between Gnosticism and Christianity, Judaism, mystery religions and Graeco-Roman philosophy for preeminence in the Roman Empire. A fee is charged.

"Chinese Ink Landscapes," featuring paintings by David Jones, following the Chinese tradition and thought, will be shown at Scripps College Clark Humanities Museum, Claremont, through Nov. 21.

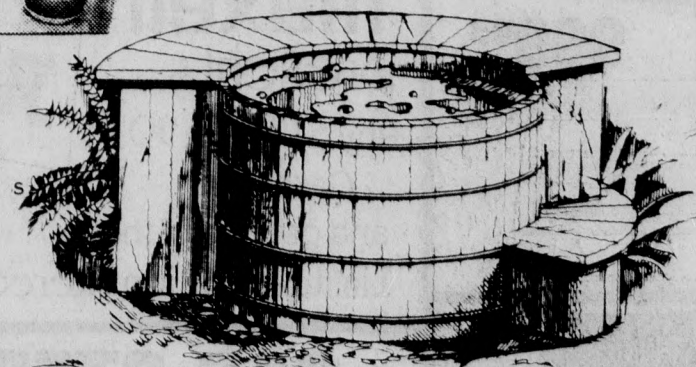

Twenty-four landscapes and four scrolls are displayed. Gallery hours are from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. weekdays. There is no admission charge.

Points on pets

A new form of pet photography — zero in on unnoticed features

By JERRY WINDLE
Copley News Service
Here's a new and exciting way to photograph your pet — zeroing in on fine details of the animal often not noticed in the overall general shot.

Carol Woods took these interesting pictures of her dog, Tanya.

"What set me on to this was getting down at eye level with the dog and immediately the pictures leaped out," Woods said.

She used a 50mm to macro lens 6 to 10 inches from the subject to shoot her pictures. The camera was loaded with TRI-X rated at 800ASA film and shot with natural lighting.

Tanya was a perfect subject for black and white photography since she is a black and white part Labrador and Irish Setter. She also lay perfectly still and let the photographer take pictures as long as she wished.

"A most perfect dog," says Woods, who needed no assistant for her study of Tanya.

Which is the best film for me to use?

Asking this question is like asking which is the best camera to buy. There is no ONE film that is going to answer all your needs.

It is a good idea to experiment until you find a film that works well under practically all conditions, and then stick with it. In that way you can estimate in your head what the exposure should be under any type of light without having to depend on the metering system of the camera, which could be wrong.

Also, when you use the same film most of the time, you will know how it will reproduce shadows, bright areas and how the finished slide or print will look. You will learn how to use its own individuality to your advantage.

But it is important to be aware of other films as well, should a special need arise which would require a special emulsion. For instance, you would want a very fine-grain film for an extreme enlargement, such as a wall mural. Then you want the best image you can possibly get.

Press photographers and most professionals use the high-speed, black-and-white films, ASA 400, for about 98 percent of their work. It is a good, dependable film usable under any conditions, with flash or without, using "push" processing. They are after good, sharp images which will be enlarged.

They thus sacrifice the finer grain of the slower films for faster speed and greater grain. This is really not that apparent in the 8x10-inch photograph, especially after it appears in print.

The best way is to experiment with various films until you find one you like, are comfortable with and can depend on.

If your photographs mean money in the bank, then you are going to go with a film you know and can trust.

You are key to good health

Doctors and hospitals notwithstanding, you are the key to maintaining your own good health. And preventing illness will keep your medical bills down.

That is the word from the California Medical Association, which recommends these good health habits:

— Don't smoke. Cigarette smoking contributes to lung cancer, emphysema and heart disease. It is estimated that a smoker of two packs of cigarettes a day for 30 years has cut five years off his life.

— Eat sensibly. A well-balanced diet provides necessary nutrition. Watch your weight; being overweight increases the risk of developing high blood pressure, heart and other health problems.

Use alcohol moderately. If you regularly have more than two drinks daily, you may be headed for a drinking problem. Alcoholics have a higher risk of developing liver disease, ulcers and malnutrition.

— Avoid dangerous drugs. "Street" or "hard" drugs lead to addiction and often to fatal overdoses. Indiscriminate or prolonged use of drugs that have been prescribed by your doctor also can be dangerous. If you are taking several medications, check with your doctor to make sure they can be safely mixed. Don't use anyone else's medication. Don't use alcohol if you are on medication, unless you have your doctor's approval. If you have children in your home, keep all medicines, including aspirin, out of their reach.

— Exercise regularly. Exercise improves circulation and muscle tone, strengthens heart muscle and helps control weight. If you're a newcomer to exercise, begin in easy stages.

— Observe safety measures.

'Miracle' plant thrives as far north as Davis

By ROBERT P. STUDER
Copley News Service
SACRAMENTO — Until now, nearly everyone who cared enough to have an opinion assumed that jojoba — the "miracle shrub" that can yield an oily wax of premium quality useful in dozens of commercial and industrial applications — couldn't be successfully grown in the northern part of California.

The plant's northern limits, it was assumed, were about 35 degrees north latitude. In California, that would be at the south end of the San Joaquin Valley, near Bakersfield.

Yet, today there is a half-acre of jojoba thriving at the University of California at Davis, just west of here, with hundreds of plants. Some of them were grown from seed, others from transplants, others from rooted cuttings.

The experiment to see if jojoba can be successfully grown in commercial quantities under marginal conditions of temperature and length of season has resulted in a "qualified by optimistic yes," according to project directors Thomas L. Rost, associate professor of botany, and Peter B. Catlin, pomologist.

The plant's normal habitat is the nation's Southwest — Arizona, New Mexico and southeastern California.

"Although there has been some winter damage to the plants," the researchers report, "there has been rapid recovery. And other plants, deliberately stressed in handling and planting, and others purposely waterlogged, have done as well as those treated normally after only brief setbacks, if any."

The two UC-Davis scientists now believe that there is no apparent reason why the two- and three-year-old plants cannot continue to grow and mature into shrubs capable of yielding oil seeds, possibly in commercial amounts needed for profitable agricultural production.

However, they added, a few more years will be needed to confirm these results, together with further research to select the best varieties of jojoba for the Northern California climate.

Jojoba is capable, in at least some areas, of growing to a height of 15 feet and the same in diameter. Oil content of the seed approximates 50 percent, Rost and Catlin said. Mature plants average about four pounds of seed annually, according to other research at the University of California at Riverside, they added.

The jojoba has aroused some high-level interest, with even Gov. Jerry Brown and his administrative staff getting involved in its study. The interest stems from the widespread demand for a substitute for sperm whale oil and for an industrial lubricant to replace the shrinking supply available from petroleum, natural gas or coal.

Apricot pits come from California

Plant in Tijuana produces 90% of world's laetrile

By PAULA KRINER
Copley News Service

At the center of a controversy that touches research clinics, human lives, moral choice and constitutional law is laetrile, a clear liquid made from the pits of garden variety apricots.

The laetrile controversy has been an emotional one because of modern medicine's failure thus far to conquer cancer. A number of physicians advocate laetrile's use for cancer victims. Most, however, discount its effectiveness and portray its use as medical quackery.

It was this controversy that led Gerald and Diane Green to a self-imposed exile in Tijuana early this year after a Massachusetts Superior Court judge ordered them to stop giving laetrile to their 3-year-old son, Chad, who was suffering from leukemia.

In a two-story, white-washed building that sits alongside a dirt road on the outskirts of Tijuana is the factory that produces 90 percent of the world supply of laetrile.

Licensed by the Mexican government, the Cyto Pharma factory produces approximately 40,000 three-gram vials of injectable solution and 20 kilograms (40,000 tablets) of the controversial drug each month. Nearby is the Cydel Clinic, which has become a center for laetrile treatment. Both are owned by the eight Del Rio brothers.

Sergio del Rio, a tall, well-dressed businessman who runs the small factory, knows well the controversy surrounding the drug.

"We have had to work against two important factors," Del Rio explained as he sat surrounded in his modest office by pictures of the race car he drove in previous Baja 1000 races.

"We have to prove to the rest of the world that we are professionals working with good equipment and therefore have a right to do what we are doing."

"We also have to tackle the bad reputation of Tijuana. People don't believe that this city can house a factory or clinic of this capacity."

After several years of contact with Dr. Ernesto Rodriguez Contreras, owner and director of a clinic for cancer patients in Tijuana, and several other laetrile researchers, the Del Rio brothers purchased a small laboratory in Sausalito from Andrew McNaughton. Nine years ago they transplanted all of the equipment across the border.

McNaughton was once foremost among producers of laetrile around the world and leading sponsor of efforts to legalize it through his McNaughton Foundation in the United States.

In spite of strong opposition from the American Cancer Society, American Medical Association and the Food and Drug Administration, the Del Rio brothers managed to register the laboratory with the Mexican government.

According to Dr. Sidney Saltzstein, president of the San Diego chapter of the American Cancer Society, the society's position on laetrile is that it is ineffective. He cited an experiment in which patients were given a sugar pill placebo in place of pain killers. Saltzstein said more than 40 percent of the patients actually experienced definable pain relief.

"They (laetrile advocates) used to say laetrile 'cures' cancer, and now they say it 'helps' in the treatment of cancer. But 'help' is a general definition," he said.

The manufacture of laetrile takes four to five days.

To meet increasing demands for laetrile, Cyto Pharma employs about 50 persons on three continuous shifts. Eleven of these are skilled laboratory technicians, a few are chemical engineers, and all have been "well-trained," Del Rio said.

Quality control from pits to the final product, Del Rio contends, is essential.

"We don't use just any pits," he said. "We use only fresh pits."

According to Del Rio, this is how laetrile is manufactured at Cyto Pharma:

First the kernels of the apricot pits are crushed, then the crushed kernels are mixed with alcohol and agitated continuously for three hours at 80 degrees centigrade (176 degrees Fahrenheit). This mixture is placed into a high speed centrifuge which separates the liquid from the solid pulp. The alcohol and oil "wastes" are later sold as chemical by-products.

The next step, "concentration and purification," involves various stages of filtration to remove the remains of alcohol and oil.

The impure amygdalin (the chemical name for laetrile) is washed with ether to remove all traces of oil. Once dried, it is mixed with alcohol, water and charcoal and simultaneously heated and agitated. This is placed in a freezer for 72 hours to crystallize the amygdalin and separate the impurities. The frozen mixture is blended and then filtered.

The process is repeated twice, each time reducing the amount of alcohol, water and carbon until the amygdalin is 99.5 percent pure. The chalky powder is then placed into an oven to dry.

Finally, the laetrile is colored and stamped into tablets. It is also used to make an injectable solution under sterile conditions in an isolated room using special lights. The vials are filled by lab assistants required to wear special space suitlike coveralls.

The liquid solution is subject to eight to 10 different tests for contamination. The vials are then held for 40 days and again tested for purity before they are placed on the market for sale.

Del Rio says other countries are unable to compete with the output of his small factory due to the high cost of apricot kernels and isopropyl alcohol, a derivative of petroleum. Cyto Pharma gets 40 percent of its apricot kernels from California, the majority of which comes from orchards near San Jose.

Each bottle of injectable solution costs $3.45 to produce and is sold to clinics, hospitals and distributors for $4.25. In table form, each 500-gram allotment costs 42.5 cents and is sold for 70 cents.

According to Del Rio, Cyto Pharma sells to distributors of 20 states. These states have passed laws which, in various forms, allow laetrile's use or manufacture.

However, no state in which the use of the drug is permitted has the raw materials to produce the drug.

And California, a state in which apricots are grown in abundance, has a state law barring the prescription, administration, sale or other distribution of any unproven treatment for cancer, including laetrile.

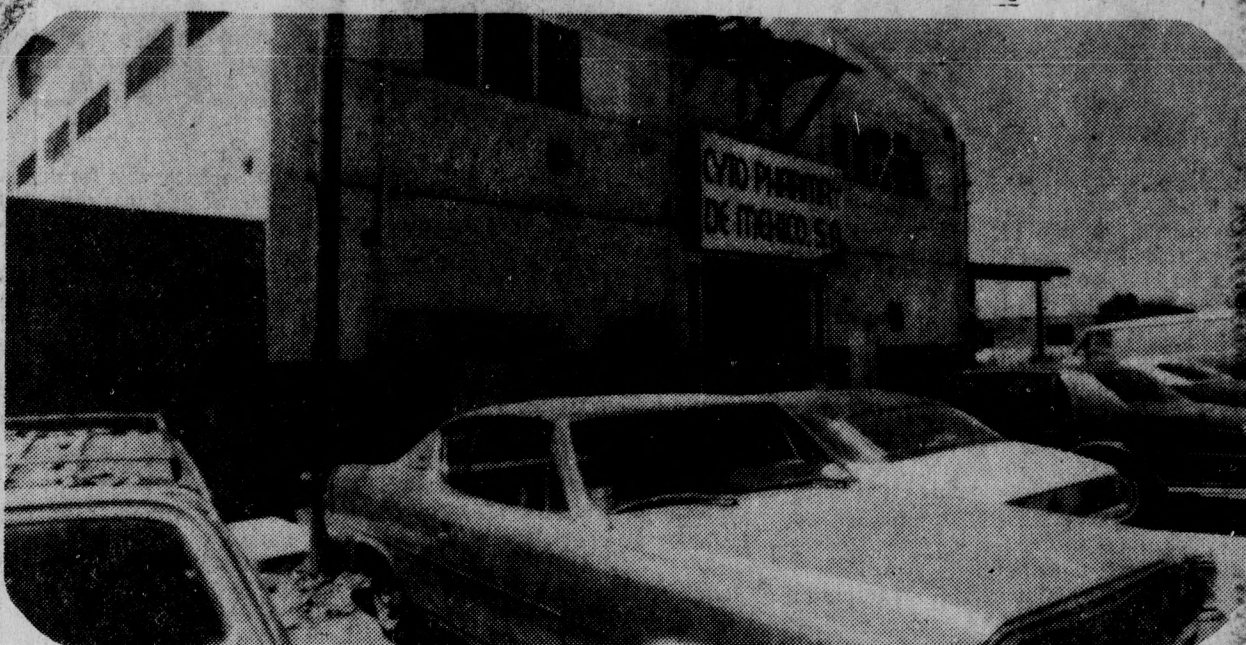

In June, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that drugs for the terminally ill have to meet federal safety and effectiveness standards and that the Food and Drug Administration can ban interstate traffic in laetrile after it settles some other legal questions regarding the drug. Those battles are still being fought in lower courts.

Del Rio sidesteps

addressing the legality issue, just as he avoids using the word "cure."

"We don't believe that laetrile is an ultimate solution," he said. "But in the meantime, it is the best that there is as far as relieving pain."

The patient, Del Rio contends, should be allowed to make the choice.

The apricot pit stops here at this small factory, left, on the outskirts of Tijuana, Mexico. Cyto Pharma produces about 40,000 three-gram vials of injectable solution and 40,000 tablets of laetrile each month. The controversial drug is made from the pits of garden-variety apricots.

8-day Hanukkah event begins Dec. 15

By JEANNETTE BRANIN
Copley News Service

A miracle that occurred more than 2,000 years ago will be recalled by world Jewry when the eight-day celebration of Hanukkah begins.

The story begins with a tragedy, the subjugation of the Jews in Jerusalem by invading Syrians, and the desecration and destruction of the Holy Temple.

At the end of the war, the Jews returned to the temple and searched for oil needed to light the altar lamp. Only one small cruse of oil was found and it was enough to burn for only one day. But the light remained constant for eight days.

It is to recall this miracle that eight-branched menorahs, or candelabras, are lighted, one candle each evening, during Hanukkah, "The Feast of Lights." The date is set by the lunar calendar and varies each year. This year it falls on Dec. 15.

The potato pancakes are served in honor of the daughter of a high priest, Judith, who fed salty dishes to the general of the Syrian army, causing him to drink too much wine. Judith was able to bring about his drunkenness and his death.

Potato pancakes with applesauce or with sour cream, are served in almost all Jewish homes during the celebration. Another specialty is "Cholent," the overnight triumph of Jewish cuisine. Cookery on the Sabbath was forbidden as work and this dish was devised as one that could be made ahead of time.

The name "Cholent" is said to have come from the words "die shule ende," meaning "the end of synagogue." This is the modern version:

Cholent
2 cups dried pea beans
2 1/2 quarts water
1 cup dried medium barley
2 tablespoons chicken fat
2 large onions, sliced

4 pounds beef brisket
2 tablespoons kosher salt, divided
1/2 teaspoon pepper
2 bay leaves
6 medium baking potatoes, pared and halved
4 large carrots, pared and quartered
1 pound whole mushrooms

Rinse dried pea beans and place in large kettle. Add water, cover and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer 30 minutes. Rinse dry barley and add to beans in kettle. Continue to simmer, covered, over low heat for 30 minutes longer.

Melt chicken fat in a large skillet, add onions and cook until lightly browned, add to kettle. Sprinkle brisket with one tablespoon of salt and pepper. Brown on all sides in skillet, then place in kettle with beans and barley. Add bay leaves, potatoes, carrots and mushrooms, sprinkle with remaining one tablespoon salt. Cover tightly and bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer three hours, until meat is very tender. Remove meat to large platter and surround with vegetable mixture. Serves 12.

Anna Schonbrun is one of the many young women who keep the Hanukkah traditions alive in their homes.

Here's a recipe for one of her favorite feast foods.

(Potato Pancakes)
Latkes
4 russet potatoes, peeled

1 large onion, peeled
2 eggs
2 1/2 tablespoons flour
Salt and pepper
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
Grate potatoes and onion, drain excess liquid. Add other ingredients and mix well. Fry in hot oil or chicken fat until golden brown. Place pan in 350-degree oven with door open to keep warm until serving time. Use a cookie sheet with foil lining and paper towel to absorb excess oil. Serves 8.

Aromatic seasonings

Spices have long, long history

By MARJORIE RICE
Copley News Service

About 52,000 years ago, give or take a millennium, man discovered that a hunk of the hunt was vastly improved when it was wrapped in some leaves before it was stuck into the fire.

From then and throughout history, the story of spices and aromatic seasonings is one filled with discovery, pirates, even wars, as people fought for the flavoring that would make their food palatable.

(It wasn't just finicky taste buds. Poor storage, and a lack of refrigeration made it imperative to find a way to cover up the stench of near-rotting food.)

We're still interested in spices and herbs, not now as cosmetics for bad food, but as enhancers, teasers of the palate.

Last year Americans consumed 457 million pounds of spices, according to the American Spice Trade Association.

Their products include spices, herbs, spice seeds and dehydrated vegetable seasonings (dried onion, parsley flakes, green pepper flakes, etc.).

The group also sponsors research into the chemical makeup of spices, ways to better clean and process them, and nutrient analysis of spices.

The group's research efforts got some seasonings off the banned list for some special diets (bland isn't always better, doctors have found, for patients with some stomach disorders).

The association has a variety of booklets on spices, most of them free, available to consumers. Two of particular interest to persons on special diets are "Low Sodium Spice Tips" and "Low Calorie Spice Tips."

Order both by writing the association at P.O. Box 1267, Englewood Cliffs, N.J. 07632. Send a self-addressed, stamped legal size envelope, and while you're at it, ask them for a list of other publications for consumers.

Experiment, and get to know how a spice or herb tastes. Then imagine it in various food blends.

For instance:

— Sprinkle ground cardamom on honeydew melon, whole cardamom seed in demitasse coffee.

— Add celery seeds to cole slaw, sprinkle celery salt over creamed vegetable soups just before serving.

— Crush dill seeds into a potato salad, sprinkle dill weed over thinly sliced cucumbers then add French dressing.

— Use ground coriander to brighten canned mushrooms, chop coriander leaves (cilantro) over chilled soups and Indian and Mexican recipes.

— Crush a few fennel seeds into pie fillings, slice a whole fennel root thinly and try it raw with a vinaigrette dressing.

— Add a dash of mace to whipped cream to cake topping, grate fresh nutmeg (the nut from the same plant that produces mace) into freshly steamed green vegetables such as spinach.

— Add ground mustard to cheese sauce for macaroni (careful, it's not), add a few mustard seeds to pot roast cooking liquid.

— Crush green peppercorns, then press them into a steak before broiling.

There are some herb and spice combinations that are classics.

Allspice goes into baked foods, fruit desserts, pickles, relishes and marinades.

Basil is the perfect mate for tomatoes (and it's very easy to grow both). Use it in spaghetti sauce, and with cooked vegetables, seafood, poultry and salads.

Bay leaves flavor soups and stews, marinades and meat, fish and fowl.

Caraway, particularly good on sauerkraut and pork, goes on breads, and in cheese dips and spreads.

Cinnamon is the ubiquitous baking spice, going into puddings, sweet sauces, chocolate and fruit desserts.

Cloves go pressed into ham, in fruit desserts, pickles, stews, gravies and cooked with root vegetables. Ground, cloves go into drinks and baked foods.

Cumin is the spice that goes in chili and curry. Try it in deviled eggs, soups and cheese dishes.

Mace is the pie spice. It's also a common spice for pound cake, sweet vegetables, chowders and creamed spinach or chicken.

Mustard seed gives pungent taste to pickles and salads.

Fresh facts

Sprouts good buy

This period is described as a transitional time for produce dealers. Although many commodities are steady and of good supply, there are few great bargains.

With Thanksgiving approaching, however, retailers expect to promote produce that will be in good supply in the coming weeks.

Vegetables
Leafy vegetables are picking up for the holidays, and are expected to do good for the next two or three weeks. Iceberg lettuce is still of poor quality due to heat and rain from two months ago.

Brussel sprouts are the best vegetable buy, according to some dealers, due to heavy supply. Other vegetables will be reaching good supply in time for Thanksgiving.

Broccoli, celery, radishes, green onions and carrots are among the holiday vegetables that will be in good supply and will be bargains in coming weeks.

Squash is expected to be high for a while; supply is tight due to recent rains.

Butternut, Banana and Table Queen will remain the best squash buys.

Artichokes will continue to be high, as well as other specialty items. Low priced this week are bell peppers and cucumbers. Recent insecticide problems in Southern California tomato crops has reduced some of the supply, and retailers expect to see it affecting the market in some way.

The problems include the cherry varieties as well, and prices on all tomatoes are expected to remain high, even though the supply should be rising.

Fruit

The fruit market, particularly in transition, has apples in good supply. The price should remain steady or be increasing slightly, with one problem, being the demand from other countries for Oregon and Washington apples.

Expected soon in good supply are California's naval oranges. The rest of the citrus market will be in steady supply in coming weeks from Florida and Texas as well. Florida grapefruit is having a hard start, but other citrus looks good. Limes and tangerines from the Coachella Valley will be reasonable.

For Thanksgiving papayas and pineapples are expected to be good bargains due to a heavy supply. Fresh cranberries, however, will be of short supply and high priced.

All new breed of physicians treating patients as 'systems'

By CATE TUTTLE
Copley News Service

Ancient Chinese doctors were paid only as long as they kept their patients well. Chinese traditionalists held that if an average doctor was capable of curing a given illness, a great doctor's talents could have controlled the disease in its latent state. And even though I don't know any "pay-as-you-grow" doctors, a new breed of physicians has emerged who approach patients as balanced, inter-related systems that only get ill as a result of bodily disharmony.

Dr. Jeffrey Anderson, a California holistic physician, built his practice around this philosophy — treat bodily imbalances with nutrition, vitamins, herbs and acupuncture and, most likely diseases won't get started.

Since many of his patients, such as models and actors, depend on their looks and vitality for a livelihood, I asked him what he typically recommends as a healthy, holistic, balanced way to lose excess weight.

"The first thing I do is order tests for hypoglycemia, anemia and thyroid functioning," he said, "and in the office I do a hair and eye analysis (the latter called iridology). All these tests give me clues about the patient's body chemistry." He added that he likes to check the liver because one of its functions is releasing carbohydrates into the blood, and a liver may put out unnecessarily high amounts, making weight loss difficult.

"For patients over 40, I also order an electrocardiogram, because I emphasize physical activity as part of a diet."

He explained that after looking over the results of tests, the patient's medical history and lifestyle, he recommends a diet. "Most

Send for free recipe booklet

The 40 winning recipes prepared in the recent National Pineapple Cooking Classic are available, free of charge, in a booklet designed to fit conveniently into the cook's recipe file.

Recipes featured are for main dishes, salads, breads and desserts, including the four top award winners: a pineapple - cheese dessert baklava, which won the $25,000 grand prize; a delicious main dish quiche, a hearty paella salad and a gingered coffee cake laced with pecans.

The free booklet is available by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope (large enough for a 3" x 5" booklet) to: Pineapple Classic Recipes, 747 Front St., fourth floor, San Francisco, CA 94111.

often, I recommend a moderate - carbohydrate, moderate-protein, low-fat diet with intake totaling about 700 calories a day. I don't eliminate carbohydrates because cells need energy to remove fat molecules and this energy comes from carbohydrates. A diet that strictly limits their intake reduces the cells' ability to expel fat molecules. And since many people are hypoglycemic," he continued, "I recommend natural carbohydrates which won't start the excess-insulin, low-blood-sugar cycle — usually one slice daily of whole-grain bread and two servings of moderately sweet fruit like apples or berries."

For daily requirements of fatty acids, he suggests a tablespoon of lecithin (soybean extract), and one egg (chicken extract). To supply protein, he recommends a serving of fish, white animal meat, or a soybean product such as tofu.

I was surprised, when we came to the subject of vitamins, to learn that he recommends only 20 to 30 mg of vitamin B daily, but he explained, "Vitamin B can stimulate the appetite, so I suggest an organic, low-dose multiple vitamin, supplemented with 100mg of vitamin C and a multiple mineral tablet."

Anderson had these additional suggestions that may be helpful to you no matter what diet you follow:

1. Take three or four tablespoons daily of raw bran to pace the food going through the digestive tract. When you decrease your intake, it's important that it not pass too quickly through your system.

2. Take digestive pancreatic enzymes with meals to increase absorption in the stomach.

3. Try not to combine proteins and carbohydrates at the same meal.

4. Eat smaller portions more frequently, rather than a few large meals, and don't wait until you're very hungry.

5. Take one teaspoon daily of ground red dulse, a Japanese seaweed that can be found at health food stores. It increases the body's fire (a Chinese concept), which is especially important if you suspect a sluggish thyroid as part of your problem.

San Dimas Press; LaVerne Leader; The Bulletin; Upland News; Rancho Cucamonga Times; Montclair Tribune

"Remember," he cautioned, "always get your doctor's approval, because you're tampering with your chemical balance."

"And don't be discouraged if one diet doesn't work, everyone is biochemically different, and what works for someone else may not be right for you. But keep exploring and you'll eventually find the magic formula for you."

Keep Red Cross ready.

Broccoli-Mushroom Strudel is the ideal dinner for guests on Monday nights when the football games are shown on television. Have a fun time watching your favorite team with friends after a hearty and tasty meal.

Watch football after top food

Fall is here and the football season is well underway. Why not invite some friends over to watch Monday Night Football? This hearty strudel is just the right snack for football fans. Two hot strudels are filled with broccoli, mushrooms and sour cream. Served with mugs of hot beef broth, this snack is bound to win points.

Broccoli-Mushroom Strudel

8 ounces mushrooms, sliced
*1 head broccoli (just the tops), chopped
1 small onion, chopped (about 1/2 cup)
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 cups real sour cream
2 tablespoons sherry, optional
1 package (10 ounces) frozen 6 pastry patty shells
Heat oven to 375 degrees F. Cook and stir mushrooms, broccoli and onion in butter until tender, about 10 minutes. Stir in parsley, sour cream and sherry; remove from heat. Roll three patty shells on lightly floured board into a rectangle, 12 x 8 inches. Place half broccoli mixture along the center of pastry lengthwise; fold edges over. Place pastry seam side down on greased baking sheet; seal ends. Make six 1-inch cuts with sharp knife along each side of strudel. Repeat with second half of dough and broccoli mixture. Brush both strudels with melted butter. Bake until browned, 35 to 40 minutes. Cut each strudel into 6 slices. Serve hot. Makes 12 servings. Approximately 235 calories per serving.
*1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped broccoli may be substituted; prepare according to package directions. Stir into mushroom-onion mixture with sour cream.

Thanksgiving's a time for tradition

Oysters, like turkeys, were readily available in this country when the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock. So, it's only natural that oyster stuffing has become a traditional Thanksgiving treat, along with a golden, roast turkey, for many Americans.

For the Indians, oysters had become a favorite food, just as they had for those in several European countries, including England. Oysters, in fact, are frequently mentioned in history as far back as the ancient Egyptians.

Here, an updated version of oyster stuffing is served with a juicy whole turkey from California to create a memorable and luscious Thanksgiving entree. The stuffing is easy to prepare and a perfect flavor combination with the turkey.

Start with celery and onion, both sauteed in butter until tender. Mix the sauteed vegetables with dry bread cubes, a little milk (or oyster liquor if you prefer), oysters and some seasonings.

There will be enough stuffing for a 12 to 14 pound California turkey, just right for 12 to 14 servings, or fewer with some wonderful leftover turkey for other meals. If, however, you prefer to use a smaller or larger bird, use this timetable for approximate cooking times:

Time Chart For Roasting Unstuffed Turkey in a Preheated 325 Degree Oven
 Ready-to-Cook: 6 pounds, 2½ to 3 hours; 8 pounds, 3 to 3½ hours; 12 pounds, 4 hours; 16 pounds, 5 hours; and 20 pounds 5½ hours.

Notes: Add about ½ hour additional roasting time if turkey is stuffed. Meat thermometer should read between 180 and 185 degrees F. when turkey is done.

Roast Turkey-Oyster Stuffing
 1 pound loaf white bread
 2 cups finely-chopped celery (7 to 8 stalks)
 2 cups finely-chopped onion (2 to 3 medium onions)
 ¾ cup butter or margarine (1½ sticks)
 ½ cup milk
 3 containers, 8 ounces each, fresh or frozen oysters, drained*
 1 teaspoon lemon juice
 ¼ teaspoon nutmeg

¾ teaspoon poultry seasoning

Salt

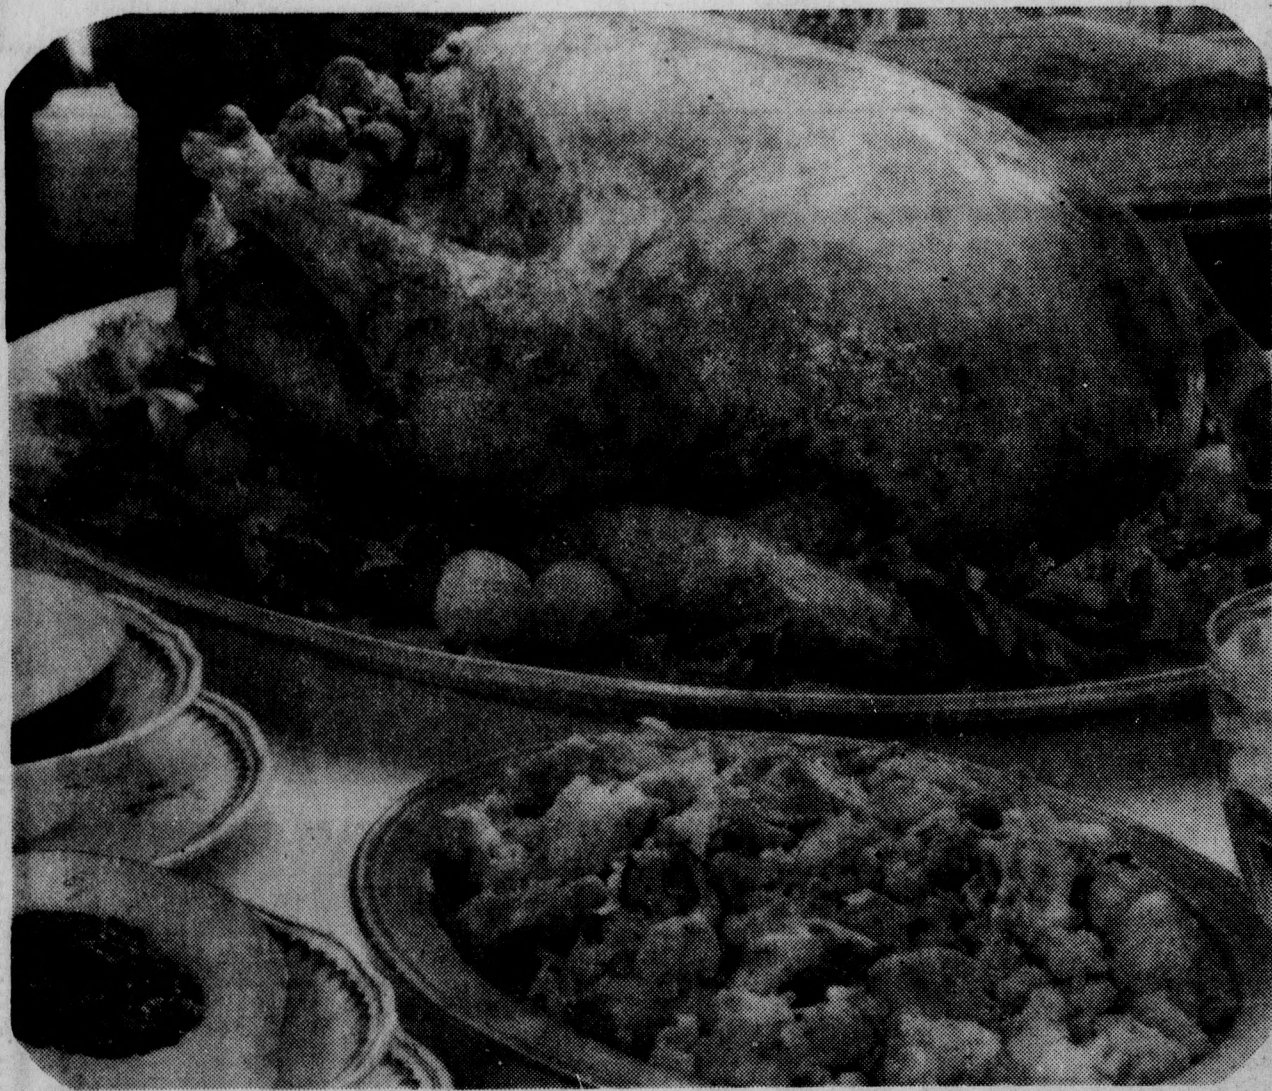

Pepper

12 to 14 pound turkey

Dry bread slices overnight in open air or on rack in 250 degree oven 1 to 1½ hours. In skillet, saute celery and onion in butter until tender. Warm milk over low heat in small saucepan. Tear bread into ½ inch pieces, making about 11 cups; place in large mixing bowl. Sprinkle warm milk over bread, tossing lightly. Add onion and celery with butter mixture and oysters to bread; toss to mix well. Sprinkle with lemon juice, nutmeg, poultry seasoning, ¼ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper; mix thoroughly.

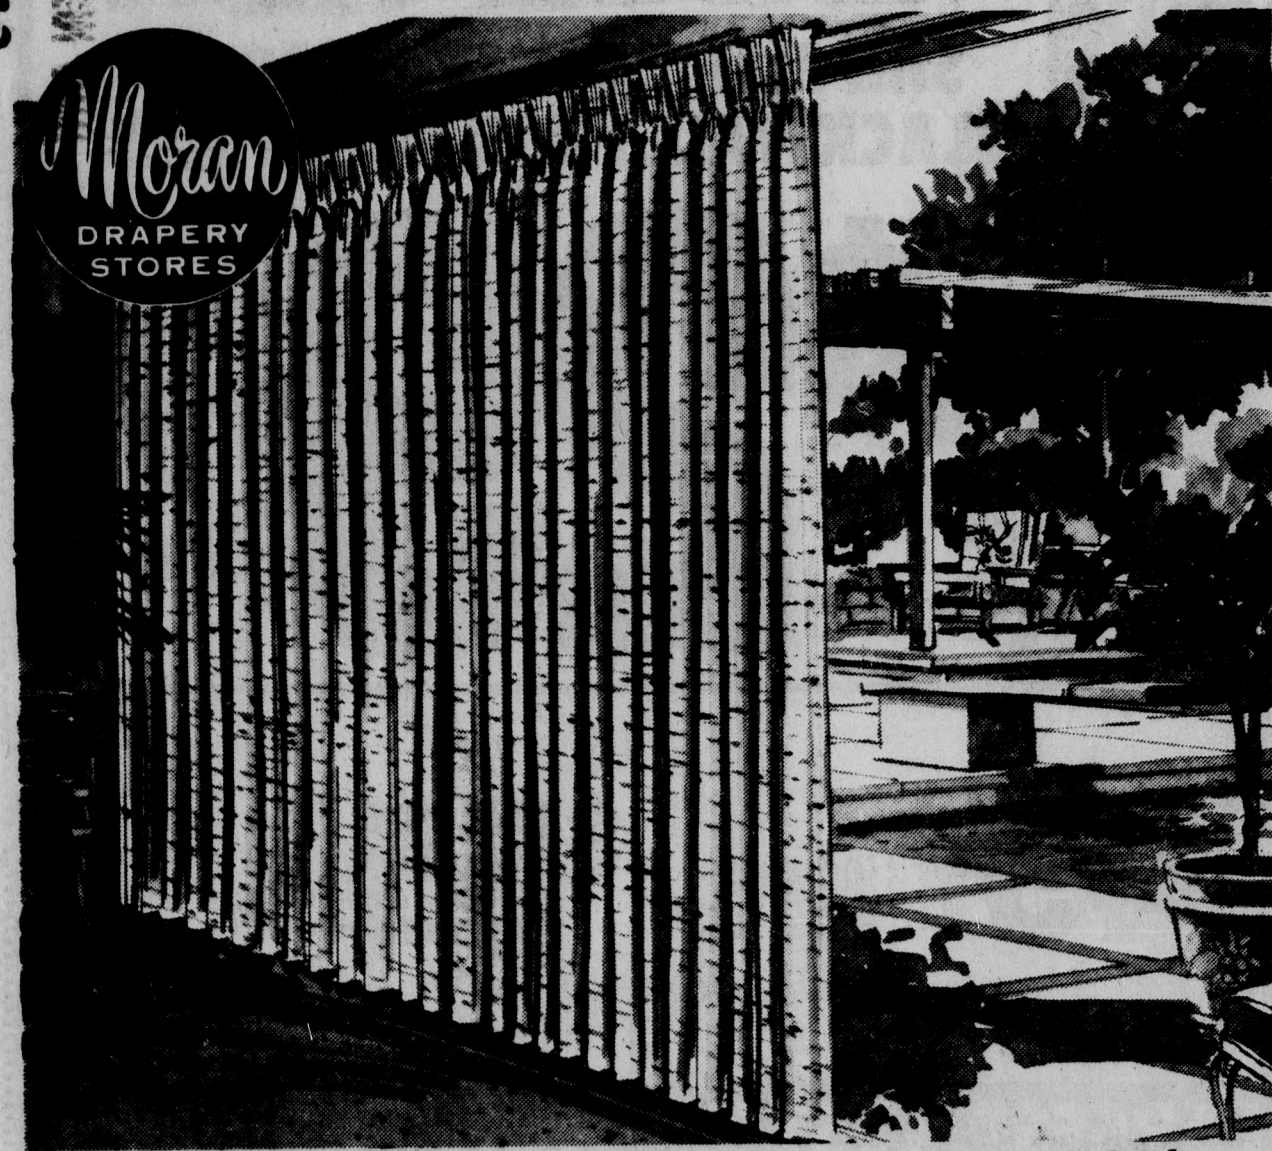

Rinse turkey; pat dry. Rub salt and pepper into neck and body cavities. Lightly spoon dressing into neck cavity; close with skewer. Fill body cavity. Secure drumsticks lightly with a string. Roast uncovered on roasting rack in 325 degree oven 20 to 22 minutes per pound or to internal temperature of 180 to 185 degrees. Any remaining dressing may be baked, in a covered casserole, along with the turkey during last hour of roasting. Uncover dressing during final 10 minutes of cooking. Let turkey stand at least 20 minutes before carving. Makes 12 to 14 servings.

*If desired, canned oysters may be substituted. Also if desired, oyster liquor may be substituted for part or all of the milk. Salt level may need to be adjusted to taste.

Two "native American" foods — turkey and oysters — join together for a traditional Thanksgiving treat, roast turkey with oyster stuffing. Bake halves of acorn squash filled with cranberry relish for a delicious side dish. This combination is a true New England combination for the holiday of thanks.

Brussels sprouts highly popular

By B. FRANCIS KLEIN
Copley News Service
Naturally yours. BRUS-SELS SPROUTS.
Now here's a vegetable that is available at your market in fresh form for much of the year. It's a popular vegetable that looks and tastes much like a dainty cabbage. And no wonder

— that's what brussels sprouts are.
When you buy this item at your market, pick only the greenest ones in color. ...

The yellowish ones are the older ones and are likely to be too strong or mature.
Look for little worm holes
— the inner core of the bud is a favorite hiding place for little bugs. To be sure there are no visitors inside the brussels sprouts, slice them in half, wash well, and cook for about 10 to 15 minutes in boiling water, with a dash of baking soda in the water.

They will stay nice and green and won't give your kitchen the odor of cooking

cabbage. Brussels sprouts are just great when they are cooked with large sliced chunks of celery.

Brussels sprouts — natu-

After 24 years on county board

Longtime school trustee quits

After nearly 24 years of service to the San Bernardino County Board of Education, Ruth O. Harris will retire at the end of the month. Her last official meeting with the board was Wednesday.

As one of the first in the state to be a lay member of a county board when the law permitted it, Harris began her long service in February 1954, first as an appointee, then later that year as an elected member. "The county schools office is constantly seeking ways of improvement and I'm glad to have been a part of meeting that on-going challenge," Harris said. "I've learned so much and have enjoyed every minute of it."

Harris has shown a keen interest in all children with a special concern for children with handicaps requiring special education. Her concern goes beyond that of education alone, having served on the boards of the San Bernardino Family Services and the San Bernardino chapter of the American Red Cross.

"Ruth Harris has been a tremendous asset to education in our county," said Dr. Roy C. Hill, county superintendent of schools. "She is always well prepared for board meetings and is interested and knowledgeable in all school concerns, fiscal and instructional. We will miss her. She has served well."

During her stay on the board Harris has been elected president five times.

Other interests in education also have kept her involved over the years. Harris has been active in local, regional and state PTA's, including service as local and regional president. Currently she is a board of education member for Colton Joint Unified School District as well as for the Colton, Redlands, Yucaipa Regional Occupational Program (CRY-ROP).

When asked about her plans for the future Harris said, "I want to devote more time to parliamentary work which will include offering classes and workshops in the area."

Harris is a registered member of the National Parliamentarian Association.

In 1971, Harris was the recipient of Phi Delta Kappa's Citizen of the Year award for San Bernardino County. Phi Delta Kappa is a national educational organization.

Harris has other duties to keep her busy, too. Last year, she was appointed to the post of commissioner to the San Bernardino County Museum representing the fourth supervisory district.

Volunteers are needed

The Salvation Army needs volunteers to assist with wrapping nearly 10,000 Christmas gifts from local convalescent homes and prison residents. Wrapping will be done from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Nov. 19, 23, 26 and 29 and Dec. 3 and 6.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICES OF PUBLIC HEARINGS
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Planning Commission of the City of Upland will hold public hearings on Tuesday, 20 November 1979, at 6:00 p.m., in the Council Chambers of the Upland City Hall, 460 N. Euclid Avenue, Upland, California 91786, to consider the following items:

TENTATIVE SUBDIVISION MAP NO. 10870 to create 18 residential lots in a proposed RS-15 (Single Family Residential - 15,000 sq. ft. minimum lot area) Zone, on property:

Generally described as: a rectangularly-shaped area of about 10 acres, having a frontage of about 696 ft. on the North side of 23rd Street, and a depth of about 628 ft.; its westerly boundary being about 796 ft. East of the Centerline of Euclid Avenue.

ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT STATUS: A NEGATIVE DECLARATION was prepared for this project in conjunction with its Growth Management Review (Ref. EAR-329).

TENTATIVE SUBDIVISION MAP NO. 10821 to create 8 residential lots in the RS-7.5 (Single Family Residential - 7,500 sq. ft. min. lot area) Zone, on property:

Generally described as: A rectangularly-shaped area of about 2.24 acres, extending from the North side of 13th Street to the South side of Purdue Street, and having approximately respective frontages of about 330 ft. on each street thereon; its easterly boundary being about 192 ft. West of the Centerline of Maywood Avenue.

ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT STATUS: A NEGATIVE DECLARATION was issued for this project in conjunction with related zone change proceedings (Ref. EAR-347/2C-78-25).

TENTATIVE SUBDIVISION MAP NO. 10721 to create 18 residential lots in a proposed RS-15 (Single Family Residential - 15,000 sq. ft. minimum lot area) Zone, and, concurrently, to consider the vacation of a portion of the Right-of-Way of 20th St. on property:

Generally described as: A rectangularly-shaped area of about 8.7 acres, located at the Northeast corner of Mountain Ave. and 20th Street, having frontages along said streets of about 649.5 and 617 feet respectively.

ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT STATUS: A NEGATIVE DECLARATION was prepared for this project in conjunction with its Growth Management Review (Ref. EAR-337).

CONDITIONAL USE PERMIT NO. CUP-79-12 and ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT REPORT NO. EAR-373 to permit a CHURCH with ancillary private educational facilities (pre-school), to be ultimately comprised of a chapel, an educational building, a sanctuary with a seating capacity of about 500, and a fellowship hall, in the RS-7.5 (Single Family Residential) Zone, on property:

Generally described as: A rectangularly-shaped area of about 5 acres, having a frontage of about 347 ft. on the South side of Eighth St. and a depth of about 627 ft.; its westerly property line being about 729 ft. East of the Centerline of Mountain Ave.

ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT STATUS: A NEGATIVE DECLARATION was issued for this project (Ref. EAR-373).

ABANDONMENT OF STREET AND ALLEY RIGHTS-OF-WAY, a request for abandonment of the following dedicated, but unimproved, portions of a street and alley located within the boundaries of an approved residential tract (Tract 10686) and being generally described as follows:

1. Street Right-of-Way: A section of 33 ft. in width extending southerly from a point about 286 ft. South of the Centerline of Arrow Hwy. to the North Right-of-Way line of the Southern Pacific Railroad; its West line being about 600 ft. East of the Centerline of 10th Ave.; and

2. Alley Right-of-Way: A section 20 ft. in width extending southerly from a point about 286 ft. South of the Centerline of Arrow Hwy. to the North Right-of-Way line of the Southern Pacific Railroad; its West line being about 160 ft. East of the Centerline of 10th Avenue.

ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT STATUS: A NEGATIVE DECLARATION was issued for this project in conjunction with Growth Management procedures for a related residential development (Ref. EAR-820/SP-78-33).

CONDITIONAL USE PERMIT NO. CUP-79-13 and ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT REPORT NO. EAR-374 to establish an existing non-conforming restaurant (McDonald's), as a conforming use (Ref. UMC Sec. 9401-042) and, concurrently, to allow the construction of a vehicular "drive-thru" appearance to said use, in the CH (Commercial, Highway) Zone, on property:

Generally described as: A rectangularly-shaped area of about 1.25 acres, having a frontage of about 196 ft. on the South side of Foothill Blvd., and having a maximum depth of about 281 ft.; its West property line located about 426 ft. East of the Centerline of Euclid Avenue.

ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT STATUS: A NEGATIVE DECLARATION is proposed to be issued for this project (Ref. EAR-374).

The following corrective items to be considered are described as:

1. ZONE CHANGE NO. ZC-79-12 and ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT REPORT NO. EAR-359, a zone change request from an Ag-40 (Agriculture District) Zone to an RS-15 (Residential, Single Family - 15,000 sq. ft. min. lot area per dwelling) Zone;

2. CONDITIONAL USE PERMIT NO. CUP-79-11 and ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT REPORT NO. EAR-359, a request for approval of a Conditional Use Permit to allow the establishment of a 35-unit, one- and two-story Residential Condominium project (Planned Residential Development No. PRD-23); and

3. TENTATIVE SUBDIVISION MAP NO. TT-11019 and ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT REPORT NO. EAR-359 to create 36 lots for Condominium purposes (35 residential lots for 35 dwellings and (1) Common Lot for common open space and access purposes); and, concurrently, a request for Street Vacation of a portion of 24th Street reflected upon said Tentative Map.

ALL of the above-related items (ZC-79-12, CUP-79-11, TT-11019 and Street Vacation of a portion of 24th Street) pertain to the following described property:

Generally described as: An irregularly-shaped area of about 8.88 acres located South and West of the immediate Southwest corner of Mountain Ave. and 24th Street, having a frontage of about 417 ft. on the West side of Mountain Ave., extending South from a point about 242 ft. South of the Centerline of 24th Street and having a maximum depth of about 678 ft.

ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT STATUS: A NEGATIVE DECLARATION is proposed to be issued for the project(s). (EAR-359).

VARIANCE NO. V-79-02, a Variance from Sections 9430.105 (20) (permitted encroachments into required yards in the RS-20 Zone - 50 ft. setback required, not proposed); and 9487.100 (23.1) (minimum front setback within the Euclid Avenue (SC) Zone (25 ft. required, not proposed) to allow a solid masonry wall of from 5-7.5 ft. in height to be located along the front property line in an RS-20 Zone, on property:

Generally described as: A rectangularly-shaped parcel of about 3.38 acres, having a frontage of about 328 ft. on the East side of Euclid Avenue, and a depth of about 450 ft.; its southerly boundary line being located approximately 333 ft. North of the Centerline of 19th Avenue (1836 North Euclid).

ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT STATUS: The Planning Director determined this project to be categorically exempt from CEQA requirements (Ref. Art. III, Section II, Class 3 of Upland Env. Guidelines).

This public hearing will be conducted pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 1 - Zoning Regulations, Article IX of the Upland Municipal Code and Sections 65500-65900 of the Government Code of the State of California.

All maps, environmental findings and other data pertinent to these proposals may be inspected at the Planning Department prior to the public hearing. All persons interested in any of these proposals are invited to attend said public hearings and express their opinions for or against any of the proposed projects.

/s/G. W. YOUNG
Secretary
Upland Planning Commission

The issuance of a NEGATIVE DECLARATION means that the City, after the conduct of an initial study and in compliance with provisions of the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), has found that the proposed project would not have a significant adverse effect on the environment.

Local students improve achievement test scores

By ROBERT LEE
Staff Writer

With some exceptions, students in the West End generally scored better on last year's state achievement tests than they did in the previous year.

But despite improvement in scores, many districts fell below state-prescribed expectancy levels — a range determined by socio-economic status, among other factors. Statewide results showed an improvement in third-grade reading scores, continuing a trend begun 12 years ago. In the West End, all but two districts improved scores in the third grade testing.

The major exception to improvement in the latest batch of test results was in the Chaffey Joint Union High School District. Scores in reading, spelling and mathematics all dropped, although only slightly, below results from a year earlier.

Tests were administered in every California school last spring to third-, sixth- and 12th-grade students. They are designed to show how a school district's performance compares with previous years and how schools rank across the state.

The top and bottom 25 percent of the scores are automatically discarded and only the middle 50 percent is used in determining results. Districts are assigned an expectancy range or level showing how their students should score.

According to state officials, the range is determined by the district's overall socio-economic makeup, percentage of bilingual students, the number of limited or non-English-speaking students and the number of students whose families are on welfare.

Every school district in the West End fell below expectancy levels in at least one testing category. Only two districts scored above that level — Ontario-Montclair School District in third grade reading and Etiwanda School District in sixth grade reading, written expression, spelling and mathematics.

Despite the improvement in West End scores, the majority of results fell in the bottom half of the percentile rankings. The percentile rank compares the district with all other districts in the state.

For example, Chaffey district seniors scored at the 40th percentile in reading, meaning that 39 percent of the state's school districts scored below Chaffey and 60 percent scored above.

Upland, Alta Loma and Mt. Baldy district had some of the highest percentile ranks in the West End. With the exception of sixth grade spelling, Upland students consistently ranked above the 60th percentile. Alta Loma generally scored above the 50th percentile and Mt. Baldy results were mixed.

State officials warn against trying to interpret scores of districts like Mt. Baldy because of their small size. Mt. Baldy scores ranged from the 22nd percentile in third grade reading to the 97th percentile in sixth grade reading and mathematics.

Test scores, when released to districts, are not accompanied by percentile rankings. The state Department of Education, which compiles test results, began leaving percentile ranks off test scores last year after local districts complained.

Rankings can be so negative that they prevent the tests from being used constructively to benefit student, officials said.

However, rankings can be determined through a chart in a guide to the test results published by the Department of Education.

Parking lot proposal for car-poolers ok'd

Car-pooling has gone beyond the crisis-fad stage to become serious business in the West End and the California Department of Transportation (Caltrans) is going to help.

The department has announced plans to develop four "park-and-ride" lots around the West End so motorists have a place to park their cars while sharing a ride with someone else.

The proposed locations are:

- At a planned shopping center at Euclid Avenue and the Pomona Freeway.

- At a shopping center on Central Avenue north of the Pomona Freeway in Chino. This site will be the end of a proposed bus route between Chino and Los Angeles.

- At the Montclair Plaza parking area at Central Avenue and the San Bernardino Freeway.

- At a bowling alley at Mountain Avenue and the San Bernardino Freeway in Ontario. The establishment is already providing parking space to car-poolers.

These lots, the first official ones in this area, are among five expected to be completed in the next 18 months, according to a Caltrans official, who said that about 100 of them will be developed throughout the state in the next five years.

Caltrans intends to pave lots where necessary and, if needed, construct fences, provide lighting and landscaping. The lots will provide parking for about 30 cars on the average, the official said, adding that some spaces are being donated and others will be leased at a small cost.

Park-and-ride lots are also planned for the Riverside-Corona-Mira Loma area by the end of 1980-81, the official said.

The parking lots are being developed under recent legislative authorization to spend $20 million in highway funds on projects to encourage less use of the automobile.

The Caltrans official said the department expects to spend about $137,000 developing 12 lots in District 8, which includes the San Bernardino-Riverside area.

How West End students scored

Below is a table showing how West End students scored on the state-mandated achievement tests administered during the 1978-79 school year.

The first column of numbers shows the "mean score" or the average percentage of questions answered correctly. The second column of numbers shows the percentile rank when compared to students through the state.

Percentile rank was compiled by The Daily Report using a conversion chart provided by the State Department of Education.

The final column in the chart indicates whether students scored above (A), within (W) or below (B) expectancy ranges, which vary according to socio-economic status of the school district's population.

Dangling their dingles for safety are Sheri Takeuchi and Billy Green, students at Foothill Knolls Elementary School in Upland. The Parent-Faculty Forum is sponsoring a fund-raising campaign featuring the figures of colored reflective material called "dingles." Attached to clothing or bicycles, the dangling figures spin and twirl, making the person visible to drivers during darkness. To appeal to youngsters, the dingles come in animal, sports, Disney and superhero designs. Money raised will be used for books and equipment. (Staff photo by Tom Tondoe)

Airports need better ground transportation

By CARLTON SMITH
Staff Writer

The solution to the critical air transportation shortage now looming over Southern California may be a bit more down to earth, members of the county transportation commission were told in San Bernardino Wednesday.

There is some indication, said an air planning expert with the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG), that much of the anticipated 10-to-30-million-passenger shortfall annually can be improved by investing in better ground transportation systems rather than in new airports.

"It just might be that we can solve the needs for projected air passenger demand for the near and middle term by improving the ground access to the airports we have," said Larry Goldman of the SCAG staff.

The problem, said Goldman, is going to be money. Ground transportation improvements, which would ease congestion in and around existing air facilities and thereby permit more efficient scheduling, are almost as expensive as new airports.

Goldman appeared at the county transportation commission meeting to brief commission members on the progress made by the SCAG staff and SCAG's Aviation Work Program Committee, which have been studying the airport problem for the last 10 months. The staff and the committee hope to have the report on the situation completed by January 1980.

Goldman said the committee and staff first began by trying to determine where the future air traffic demand is going to originate and discovered that nearly 70 percent of the predicted future demand will come from Orange County.

The committee has been looking at six strategies for coping with the air travel problem, including proposals to develop new airports, obtain joint use of existing military airfields, consolidate military uses, improve ground access, and improve scheduling management, including, perhaps, off-site ticketing and baggage handling.

As for new airports, Goldman said, the SCAG staff began with a list of 19 potential sites, and then narrowed the list down to five.

The five include Chino Airport, he said, as well as a site in the Chino Hills.

Also included in the final list are El Toro Marine Corps Air Station, Camp Pendleton, and a proposal to construct a field inside the breakwater in Los Angeles Harbor. "Each of the new sites has one or more critical drawbacks," said Goldman. The critical drawback of Chino Airport, he said, is the existence of hilly terrain to the southwest which does not permit missed-approach clearance.

Costs for the proposed new airports range from estimates of $340 million for joint use at El Toro to $1.7 billion for the Los Angeles Harbor proposal. To improve Chino Municipal Airport would cost an estimated $438 million.

As for joint use of existing military fields, Goldman said, the committee has pretty much decided that the discussions held so far with the military have been too "confrontational," and that the committee intends to recommend that any future discussions be less confrontational. In any case, said Goldman, joint use does not now appear to be feasible for the next 20 years.

Omnitrans hikes postponed

By CARLTON SMITH
Staff Writer

A decision on possible Omnitrans fare increases was postponed Wednesday by the Omnitrans board of directors after about 25 persons — most of them handicapped or elderly — protested the hikes.

"For God's sake, give us a break. We're human beings, too," one elderly protester told the board after hearing that the transit district intended to end free bus service for the elderly and handicapped.

The district is grappling with a new state requirement that at least 20 percent of its fixed route operating costs be recovered through fares.

Regular adult fares on fixed-route Omnitrans buses are now 25 cents, with free transfers. Students ride for 10 cents. To meet the state requirement, the Omnitrans staff recommended that the regular adult fares be increased to 35 cents, with a nickel transfer charge, that the student rate be increased to 25 cents, and that dial-a-ride charges be hiked from 75 cents to $1, except for the elderly and handicapped, whose fare would increase from 35 cents to 50 cents.

Seniors and handicapped fixed-route riders, who now travel for free, would have to pay 15 cents for fixed-route schedules under the staff proposal.

After hearing the objections, the Omnitrans board, on the motion of Ontario City Councilman Homer Briggs, voted to delay further consideration of the proposed fare hikes until their Dec. 5 meeting.

The delay will give the staff more time to further study the proposed fare hikes as they affect the elderly and handicapped. Briggs pointed out that the only reason the board is considering the increases is to bring the district into compliance with the new state law.

The new state law, known as SB 620, requires transit districts to recover at least 20 percent of their costs at the fare box. Currently, Omnitrans gets less than 10 percent of its costs from fares.
